ZIONISTS MEET IN LONDON

Britain's Role in Middle East

By a Jewish Chronicle Reporter

A resolution welcoming the cordial relations existing between Britain and Israel and calling on the British Government "to use its best endeavours to facilitate a peace settlement by direct negotiations between Israel and the Arab States," was passed at the 51st annual conference of the Zionist Federation held in London.

A further resolution, which was carried, expressed disquiet at any proposals for the Middle East involving the arming of the Arab countries surrounding Israel. The British Government, it stated, should bear in mind that such action might lead to renewed attacks on Israel, resulting in the creation of a dangerous situation in that region and menacing world peace.

32,000 Persons Represented

The conference was attended by delegates from the Federation of Women Zionists, the Poale Zion, various youth movements, and from about 70 Zionist societies in London and the provinces, representing a total membership of some 32,000. It was declared open by Mr. J. Halevy, the outgoing Chairman of the Z.F., at the Beaver Hall, E.C.4, on Sunday. Rabbi Dr. A. Altmann, Joint Deputy for the Chief Rabbi, and the Haham, Rabbi Dr. S. Gaon, were among those who sent messages of greeting.

A message was also read from Mr. David Ben-Gurion, in which the Israeli Premier said that while vision had been required to discern the Jewish State half a century ago, valour was called for at the present time to stand by Israel in

KASHER MEAT RATIONS IN LONDON

By a Jewish Chronicle Reporter

It is hoped that there will be full kasher meat rations in London this week, I am informed by an official of the Shechita Board. Slaughtering started again on Tuesday and great efforts were made to provide an adequate meat supply.

Because of the absence of the meat rations last week there was a considerable increase in the price of kasher poultry.

RABBI BRODIE IN MELBOURNE

From our Correspondent

SYDNEY

The Chief Rabbi and Mrs. Brodie arrived this week in Melbourne from Brisbane.

Before leaving Sydney last week, Rabbi Brodie, in an address to leaders of the Orthodox communities in the city, said that he expected Australia to contribute a mimimum of £20,000 towards the £200,000 appeal being made by Jews' College on the occasion of its Jubilee in 1955.

In an interview for THE JEWISH CHRONICLE, before his departure for Brisbane, Rabbi Brodie, summarising his impressions of the first part of his Australian tour, said that since the pastoral visit in 1921 of the late Chief Rabbi, Dr. Hertz, the Jewish community in the Dominion had more than doubled and now comprised about 50,000 persons. The stage had now been reached, he said, for greater organisation and cohesion in the religious sphere. He felt that his visit had prompted important developments in that direction.

HAGUE TALKS COME TO A HALT

Germans Await New Instructions

From MAURICE CARR

(THE JEWISH CHRONICLE Special Correspondent in The Hague)

THURSDAY

A critical stage has been reached in the Israeli-German reparations talks, which have come to a complete halt, it was announced by Mr. Gershon Avner, on behalf of the Israeli delegation, this afternoon. The situation, he added, is "very serious."

This ominous announcement came after a dramatic flying visit by the German delegation to Bonn to seek authority to accept, or otherwise to react to, the Israeli claim for $1,000,000,000 collective recompense. This authority was denied, or at any rate, temporarily withheld from the German negotiators by the Federal Government.

At noon on Thursday, less than 12 hours after their return from the West German capital, Professor Boehm and Dr. Kuester, the principal German delegates, had an "unofficial meeting," with Dr. Shinnar and Dr. Josephthal of the Israeli delegation. The meeting lasted over an hour and no one else was present. It is understood that Professor Boehm indicated that he hoped to have new instructions from his Government early next week.

ISRAELI STATEMENT

In a lengthy statement to the press after the meeting, Mr. Avner stated repeatedly and with the utmost emphasis: "Progress is definitely halted and will remain halted so long as the other side is not in a position to come and discuss with us in an official and binding manner the sum which Germany is prepared to pay to Israel for collective recompense." The conference, he added, is "bogged down." He pointed out that, while the Israeli delegation is prepared to wait another few days for a definitive answer, it is certainly not prepared to sit waiting in The Hague for any great length of time.

The feeling among qualified observers here is that unless the Germans make a positive move quickly the whole conference is doomed to failure.

In the meantime, the talks between the Jewish Claims Conference delegation and the Germans will continue. A plenary meeting between the two has been arranged for this afternoon.

The German visit to Bonn was not prompted or, indeed, in any way influenced by the delivery of a miniature lethal bomb to the German delegation through the post on Monday afternoon. There was no explosion either in the literal or figurative sense. There was neither physical nor emotional upset. There is some reason to believe that neo-Nazi agents provocateurs rather than Jewish terrorists were the authors of the attempted outrage.

The visit of Professor Boehm to Bonn was an important tactical success for the Israeli delegation. From the Jewish point of view the conference has been under a somewhat ominous cloud ever since the Germans in their opening statement a fortnight ago subordinated negotiations here to the simultaneous London External Debts Conference.

The declared German intention of

LORD SAMUEL SEES MR. TRUMAN

From our Correspondent

WASHINGTON

Viscount Samuel was received by President Truman at the White House on Tuesday. It is believed that they had a discussion on the work of the Hebrew University in Jerusalem.

A dinner in honour of Viscount Samuel was given last week by Mr. Eban, the Israeli Minister to the United States. Many senior Government officials, including Mr. Averell Harriman, Mr. Charles Brennan (Secretary of Agriculture), and Mr. Henry A. Byroade (Assistant Secretary of State for Near East Affairs), were present.

Lord Samuel left Washington on Wednesday for Princeton to meet Professor Einstein.

EINSTEIN: "CURB JEWISH NATIONALISM"

From our Own Correspondent

NEW YORK

Professor Einstein this week sent a letter to a non-Jewish organisation here which supports Youth Aliyah, calling on Israel to restrict Jewish nationalism.

He said that "the unparalleled persecutions which the Jewish people have suffered, particularly during the last decade, have produced the kind of nationalism that ought to be curbed if only to permit a fruitful and friendly co-existence with the Arabs."

NEW CONSTITUTION FOR ACTIONS COMMITTEE

From our Correspondent

JERUSALEM

A new draft Constitution for the Actions Committee is now being prepared and will be considered by the Zionist General Council at its meeting on May 7, it is announced here.

It was also announced that a "Zionist Ideological Conference" may be held here in August to stimulate Zionist activities in Jewish communities overseas.

REMOVED FROM TUNIS

Alleged Support for Nationalists

From our Correspondent

TUNIS

Two Jewish business men, M. Victor Baranes and M. André Barouch, said to have supported the Arab Nationalists by financing their daily paper, ES SABAH, are among neo-Destourian leaders who have been removed from Tunis and sent to Remada, Southern Tunisia. Another Jew, M. Georges Adda, accused of sabotage, has also been expelled. He is said to be a Communist.

The expulsions are a consequence of more vigorous measures by the French Resident-General to restore peace and order following the recent riots.

The appointment of M. Salah-ed-Din Baccouche as Prime Minister of Tunisia has been welcomed in Jewish circles here. Though Jewish leaders emphasise that the political situation must be watched carefully, they recall that M. Baccouche has always shown good will and friendship towards the Jewish community. It is believed here that Tunisia's 100,000 Jews will be called upon to play an important part in the reforms to be carried out with the consent of the French Government.

REVISIONISTS ARRESTED IN PARIS

From our Correspondent

PARIS

The French police on Wednesday night searched the offices of the Zionist Revisionist Party and of the Youth Movement, Betar, in Paris, and removed the archives and documents of the Cherut party and the Irgun.

During the night the Secretary of Betar was arrested and also the Chairman of the party, Mr. George Fischer, as well as the leader of Betar, Mr. Breiger. They were questioned at the police station, and after having been identified were released early yesterday morning. Others who were arrested included Mr. Shostak, Member of the Knesset, and Mr. D. Fechendler, also released yesterday morning. Orders of expulsion have been handed to Messrs. Shostak, Breiger, and Fekler (correspondent of Cherut in Paris). Mr. Breiger was due to leave Paris last night. Mr. Shostak has lodged a protest with the Israeli Consul, Mr. A. Gilboa.

NATIONALITY BILL PASSED

Arab Opposition

From our Own Correspondent

JERUSALEM

In spite of opposition by Mapai Arabs, as well as by Mapam and the Communists, the Nationality Bill was, on Tuesday, passed in the Knesset by 48 votes to 36. By its provisions, all Jews with residential status automatically become Israeli citizens unless they have already declared their unwillingness to accept Israeli nationality.

Among the main clauses are those enumerating the qualifications entitling persons other than Jews to acquire Israeli nationality automatically. These are three-fold: they must have been Palestinian citizens before the establishment of the State; their names must appear on an official register before March 1, 1952; and they must prove uninterrupted residence in Israel.

Declaration of Loyalty

Requirements for naturalisation of non-Jews are as follows: Legal residence in Israel for three out of the last five years; some knowledge of Hebrew; renunciation by the applicant of his former nationality; and a declaration of loyalty. A child becomes an Israeli at birth if either parent is an Israeli.

Parties to the left of Mapai, as well as the Arabs, strongly opposed the Bill on the ground that it contained discriminatory clauses against the Arabs. An investigation conducted in the all-Arab town of Nazareth has shown that the Bill is strongly resented there because Arabs who may have lived in Palestine for generations will now have to apply for citizenship.

Before the vote was taken, Dr. Bader (Cherut) moved the annulment of the dual nationality clause, by proposing that a choice between nationalities be made within two years. The motion was defeated.

The principle that under the Nationality Bill it will be possible for an Israeli also to retain his previous nationality, had been agreed to by an overwhelming majority. It was felt that the need to relinquish their nationality would deter many prospective immigrants.

RADIO-ACTIVE MATERIAL FROM BRITAIN

From our Correspondent

HAIFA

The first radioactive material to be used in Israeli industry—a few milligrams of cobalt isotope from the atomic pile at Harwell, in Britain—has reached here.

The isotope is to be used by the Palestine Electric Corporation for testing welded metal. Its ray can penetrate several inches of steel. The material, although almost weightless, had to be unloaded by winch as a precaution against possible ill-effects of radioactivity on the dockers.

REPARATIONS TALKS: GERMAN PRESS REACTION

From a Correspondent

BONN

Although the talks at The Hague between Israel and Germany are closely linked with the London Conference on Germany's External Debts, the German press is giving more prominence to the German-Jewish discussions.

Some German papers have sent special correspondents to Holland, and most journals are reporting on the developments at The Hague. The most outspoken of the German newspapers is the American-sponsored NEUE ZEITUNG, which expresses the hope that the "debt of honour" will be paid. The non-partisan DIE WELT, of Hamburg, formerly sponsored by the British, has an article from its special correspondent dealing with the German desire for "reconciliation." Similar reports are appearing in the Left-wing FRANKFURTER RUNDSCHAU and even in the Right-wing FRANKFURTER ALLGEMEINE ZEITUNG. The FRANKFURTER RUNDSCHAU this week said that the delegates at the German-Israeli Conference were in "perfect harmony."

Yet it would be a mistake to believe that the interest displayed in the talks by the Germans indicates a real desire to pay reparations. It is, perhaps, significant that most newspapers devote more space to discussing the difficulties confronting the conference than to ways and means of achieving a settlement. The special correspondent of the NEUE ZEITUNG speaks of the "extremely difficult questions" facing the Israeli and German delegates. One of the great problems, he says, is whether the German economy is capable of fulfilling any obligations that the West German Government may assume as a result of the present negotiations.

Much more outspoken on these "difficulties" is DIE WELT. The fact that there are two separate Jewish delegations, it says, makes the outcome more "precarious." The hope of the Jewish delegates that their claims will be given priority over those made at the London Conference by other nations are, the paper says, probably due to "wishful thinking."

What the FRANKFURTER RUNDSCHAU has to say about the talks is even more disturbing. This paper says that, even if agreement on claims is reached, its implementation must cause many difficulties. The Israelis, the paper says, want payment within five or six years, but the Germans maintain that it will take at least 35 years to implement any agreement reached at The Hague. The paper states that West Germany will ask the United States to support its contention that it is unable to make speedy payment. America, it is argued, is unlikely to support any move likely to affect Germany's rearmament programme. This attempt to enlist American support is rapidly gaining ground in German official circles here.

Of the Catholic press, only the FRANKFURTER HEFTE has urged the German delegates not to delay the negotiations. The other Catholic papers have made little comment on the talks.

As was to be expected, the fascist NATION EUROPA has strongly opposed the reparations negotiations. It denies that Israel has any legitimate claims on Germany.

ZIONIST CONFERENCE IN LONDON

the struggle for its very existence. Zionism in Britain had proved that it possessed both those qualities.

Welcoming the conference in the name of the Israeli Government, Mr. E. Elath, the Minister in Britain, said that Israel had now entered on the difficult phase of integrating the vast numbers of new immigrants who had come into the State since its inception, without lowering the social, cultural, and moral standards, and without prejudicing the future development of the country.

The time had come, the Minister continued, when the proper relationship between the Jewish State and the Jewish people would have to be decided. That, however, must not be done on a basis of resolutions or formulæ, but should be brought about through an approach based on the knowledge of Jewish history, the connections between the Jewish people and its Holy Land, the Zionist movement's past and its perspectives in the future, and on the Hebrew language and culture.

Mr. Elath called for a combined effort by the different organisations here working on behalf of Israel, and for a larger chalutzic aliya from Britain.

Professor S. Brodetsky asserted that there was nothing more dangerous for the Jewish people than the present party system in Israel. Parties within the Zionist Organisation, he added, were meaningless and absurd. A Zionist to-day was a Jew who understood the meaning of the Jewish State and was prepared to sacrifice himself for it.

Non-Zionists and Jewish Agency

Dr. Brodetsky advised against taking non-Zionists into a future enlarged Jewish Agency. The only Jews, he said, who could be relied upon to stand and die for Israel were the Zionists.

He went on to deplore what he described as the present tendency to consider that world Jewry consisted solely of Jews in the United States and in Israel to the exclusion of other communities, including those in Britain, Canada, or South Africa. In 1948, he said, British Jews represented the strongest section of all volunteers who had come from abroad to partake in the war of Jewish independence, and the per capita money contributions for Israel were largest in the Union of South Africa.

Mr. I. Wolfson, National Appeals Chairman of the J.P.A., stated that £750,000 had been pledged already towards the target of £2,000,000. But that sum had been contributed mostly by the "big donors." The mass of Jewry here had still not done its share.

In his Presidential address, Mr. Barnett Janner, M.P., said that the political objectives of the Federation had not yet been attained although the State was in existence. Israel was still under the threat of Arab hostility and had not yet secured its proper place in the Middle East. Their second main objective was to provide a stream of skilled and trained elements from this country for the building up of Israel.

On Sunday the General Zionist and Poale Zion delegates held separate meetings.

Policy of Disinflation

The P.Z. session, presided over by Dr. S. A. Miller, was addressed by Mr. Z. Haring, Assistant Secretary of Mapai in Israel. Speaking on the "Problems confronting Mapai," Mr. Haring described the new economic policy of the Coalition Government as one of disinflation.

He went on to attack Mapam, which, he asserted, was "subservient to a foreign power," and the General Zionists, as a party which did not like a large aliya and was not prepared to make the sacrifices that it entailed.

The session of the General Zionists was presided over by Mr. B. Janner. Dr. J. Sagall, who spoke on the work of the General Zionist Confederation in Europe and North Africa, reported great progress during the past year. The principle of "non-identification" with either the Zionim Klalim or the "progressives" in Israel, he said, had made it possible for the General Zionist movement in the Diaspora to remain a united and stabilising force.

Reporting on the Shnat Sherut scheme (year's service in Israel), Mr. A. Eisenstat said that two groups numbering 32 young people had already gone, and a third, consisting of 20 persons, would soon be joining similar groups from Scandinavia and France. The scheme, he said, was in full agreement with, and in addition to, the chalutzic movement. They had been able to attract people who were not drawn by the other youth movements. Even non-Jews had applied to take part in the scheme.

Mr. F. Ashe Lincoln, Q.C., who represents the views of the Right-wing General Zionists, caused an uproar when he declared that "Israel was developing on lines most distasteful to Jews who had Judaism at heart," and described the "blue-shirt" movement of Hashomer Hatzair as "quasi-fascist." Were the State and Zionism to become secularised, he added, both Israel and the movement would fail.

Mr. Halevy denied that Israel was a-religious. Should they impose religion by force, he asked. He described Mr. Lincoln's remarks as "misrepresentation of any kind of General Zionism," and added that if he (Mr. Lincoln) wanted to interfere in Israel's daily life, he should go and settle there.

Mr. Lincoln, after retorting that he had been the only one on the platform to participate in the Jewish war of independence, walked out of the session.

Mr. L. Bakstansky described Mr. Lincoln's remarks as "extravagantly irresponsible." The existence of parties in Israel, he said, was an integral part of a democratic society. Outside Israel, he added, party strife was diminishing, since they were all united in the main task of recruiting immigrants and chalutzim for the Jewish State.

During the General Zionist and the Zionist Federation sessions there were complaints of apathy and lethargy in the movement here and of lack of direction and leadership. Some speakers complained that societies were approached only for fund-raising, their members not being kept informed on fundamental problems and events.

Presenting the annual report, Mr. Maurice Cohen, Hon. Secretary, said that the surest way to "Zionise" Anglo-Jewry was through the synagogues. The Synagogue Council of the Federation, he stated, directed the work of 130 affiliated synagogues throughout the country.

The accounts, submitted by Mr. E. A. Colman, Treasurer, showed a deficit of £130; income was about £22,000, of which £10,000 was an annual grant from the J.P.A.

The report and accounts were adopted.

"Zionist Review's" Demise

The closing down of the ZIONIST REVIEW and its substitution by the JEWISH OBSERVER AND MIDDLE EAST REVIEW was referred to during the discussion. There were complaints that such a far-reaching step had been taken without consultation with the societies, and that neither the title nor the contents of the new publication indicated that it was the organ of the Zionist Movement.

Mr. Halewy, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Zionist Review, Ltd. (who are now publishing the JEWISH OBSERVER), said that there had been no obligation to consult the societies, for the publishers were a separate body in which the Federation held a majority interest. The ZIONIST REVIEW had failed, and the time had come to replace the propaganda in the old sense with a new organ, the object of which was the understanding of, and enlightenment on, Israel's problems within the framework of the Middle East.

Mr. Jon Kimche, the editor, asked to be given a chance, and the time, to try this new approach. The circulation of the new paper, he said, was increasing considerably.

A resolution calling for the insertion, in English and Hebrew, of the sub-title "the official organ of British Zionism," was referred to the new Executive for consideration.

In an address on "The Tasks of British Zionism," Dr. S. Levenberg said that Zionism here had a long tradition of combining political work, philanthropic endeavour, and direct participation in the building up of a Jewish State.

Mr. A. Richtiger presided over the Chalutz and Aliyah session, when those who gave addresses included Messrs. S. Temkin, Chairman of the Association of British Immigrants in Israel and Director of the British Z.F. Office in Tel Aviv; I. Raphael, Head of the Jewish Agency Immigration Department; and H. Sabel, Director of Patwa.

100,000 Immigrants this Year

Mr. Raphael said that although the immigration figures in the first three months of 1952 were comparatively low, at least 100,000 Jews would be admitted to Israel in the course of this year. They would include 15,000 Jews from Southern Tunisia, now threatened by the growth of Arab nationalism.

Among resolutions passed was one expressing regret at the ban imposed by some East European Governments against aliya; and another calling on the Soviet Government to allow those of its Jewish citizens who wished to do so, to emigrate to Israel and assist in the building up of the State.

The anti-Zionist campaign and the arrest of Zionist leaders in countries behind the Iron Curtain were condemned in a further resolution.

After the Hebrew session on education, presided over by the Rev. J. K. Goldbloom, the closing session was held on Monday evening, under the chairmanship of Mr. B. C. Gillinson.

The following were elected: Professor S. Brodetsky, Hon. President; Mr. B. Janner, M.P., President; Mrs. R. Sieff, the Rev. J. K. Goldbloom, Sir Simon Marks, and Dr. S. Levenberg, Hon. Vice-Presidents; Mr. Janus Cohen, Chairman of the Executive; Mr. A. Richtiger, Treasurer; and Dr. I. S. Fox, Hon. Secretary.

M.E.L.F., has consented to obtain adequate supply of matzot and wine from Israel.

All Jewish personnel in Gibraltar, Malta, Singapore, and Hong Kong will enjoy the personal hospitality of the local Jewish communities. In Ceylon a seder will be conducted by Flying Officer Seager in Colombo. Adequate supplies of matzot, wine, and Hagadot were flown out under R.A.F. auspices to this officer. IN SUPPORT OF NACHLAT GOLDBLOOM-JANNER

By a JEWISH CHRONICLE Reporter

At the close of the annual conference of the Zionist Federation a dinner was held on Monday evening at the Royal Festival Hall, London, in aid of Nachlat Goldbloom-Janner. The Rev. J. K. Goldbloom and Mr. B. Janner, M.P., were the guests of honour.

After the Chairman, Mr. Rosser Chinn, had proposed the loyal toast and the toast of the State of Israel and its President, Mr. Janus Cohen, the newly elected Chairman of the Zionist Federation, who proposed the toast of the guests of honour, paid tribute to the services both had given to the Zionist Movement. Mr. Goldbloom, he said, was probably the last link in England with Dr. Herzl, and had devoted all his life to the movement. Mr. Janner had been a tower of strength in the House of Commons and elsewhere, and never more so than in the dark days when Israel was fighting for its existence.

Mr. Goldbloom, responding, recalled the early days of the movement, his membership of the 1903 Zionist Congress, and subsequent events. He was glad, he said, to see the second and third generation taking up the work.

Mr. Janner referred to the way in which the ideal of Eretz Yisrael testified that there could be nationalism without bitterness or warlike tendencies, and paid tribute to the work of the pioneers, which was now bearing fruit.

ORPHANAGE'S £54,000 BUDGET

Aid Societies' Support

By a JEWISH CHRONICLE Reporter

The needs of the Jewish Orphanage, West Norwood, now exceeded £50,000 a year, it was stated by the President, Mr. Michael Cohen, at the annual meeting of the Orphan Aid Societies Joint Advisory Committee of the Orphanage, held at Oddenino's Hotel, Piccadilly Circus, W.1, on Tuesday.

The budget for 1952 showed, he added, that £54,280 would be needed, an increase of £7,115 over the previous year. The total contributed by the aid societies—the largest amount ever collected—was £27,000 (£26,700 net).

Mr. Cohen referred to the new film about the orphanage, produced by Mr. Charles Barnett. He also expressed regret at the lack of financial support for the Orphanage from the provincial communities with few exceptions (Manchester, Newcastle, and Brighton).

The following were among those elected: Messrs. H. Gerstler, Chairman; D. Hirshfield, Vice-Chairman; L. M. Samuel, Treasurer; M. P. Levene, Hon. Secretary; and Miss Krieger, Assistant Hon. Secretary.

SERMON FOR THE WEEK

THE LORD IS MY SHEPHERD

THE 23rd Psalm—so short, so simple, so completely universal—contains the faith of Israel. In Jewish liturgy it is the confession of the sick. But it is the Psalm, above all others, for every condition of life. There is no age or people, no circumstances, no time or place, which is alien from its appeal. It is, indeed, neither ancient nor modern, temporal nor spiritual, past nor future.

It is typical of Hebrew thought at its highest. It has enriched a great literature, it is true; but it enriches the life and soul of every man and woman who is able to realise its glories: "The Lord is my shepherd, I shall not want . . . He restoreth my soul; He guideth me in straight paths for His name's sake . . . I will fear no evil, for Thou art with me . . . Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life; and I shall dwell in the house of the Lord for ever."

Many have been the translations of the Hebrew, and not one of them is either correct or adequate. Suffice it to point out that Bema'ogle Tsedek does not mean paths of righteousness. There is no suggestion of the ethical idea of Tsedek, which means simply straight. The poet never abandons the image of shepherd and sheep. God guides the sheep in straight paths and not in by-ways, so that they shall not be lost. Let us by all means keep the hallowed old English translation; but even if we dislike a more "correct," and probably a less poetic rendering, it is surely right that every Jew at least should understand the Hebrew.

SURELY we whose fathers gave this matchless hymn of faith to the world should continue to engrave it upon our hearts and those of our children. It is the Psalm for a time of sickness. But does not that mean for every time? Are not sickness and suffering to be found everywhere? For in them is the price mankind must pay for progress and light. If we are mercifully well and happy, can we fail, in reading this psalm, to turn our thoughts and our prayers to those who do "want," to those who are passing "through the valley of the shadow"?

If we think at all we are sometimes troubled that, even when we do find the green pastures and the still waters, we cannot stay there. For they are like the Elim—the palm trees—in the desert, oases, brief halting places, where the pilgrim may rest for a time, but must leave behind to continue his journey. But that is human life. We must go on. We are, in truth, something more than sheep, for we are conscious of our pilgrimage, at times even of our destiny.

WHAT is that destiny, the purpose of the pilgrimage? The author of the 23rd Psalm tells us only: "I shall dwell in the house of the Lord for ever." He cannot mean the life to come; surely neither does he mean a temple built by men. He means simply the abiding presence of God, what the rabbis in later time called the Shechina, the spirit of God abiding in man. He meant to imply that the consciousness of that presence, the certainty that that spirit will never leave him, brings to him all the light, the guidance, and the comfort which he needs. It is for him the supreme message of the Divine to the human.

Thus does the 23rd Psalm contain the faith of Israel—in all lands and all ages. But it is the faith, too, of all who acknowledge and serve Him who is no longer only the God of Israel, the Shepherd of the Hebrew people, but the God of all mankind, the Shepherd of all His children. And in that faith lies the redemption of all humanity. "The Lord is my Shepherd; I shall not want."

SIR KEITH JOSEPH has succeeded Sir Henry d'Avigdor Goldsmid as Joint Treasurer of the Friends of the Hebrew University. Sir Henry resigned after his election as President of the Jewish Colonisation Association.

OPERA ROLE AT SHORT NOTICE

The Jewish opera star, Hilde Zadek, at a moment's notice took over the rôle of Joan Hammond, who was taken ill, in "Madam Butterfly" on Sunday, at the Free Trade Hall, Manchester, with the Hallé Orchestra. Miss Zadek was travelling from Glasgow to Birmingham with the Covent Garden Opera Company and the train was stopped at Crewe; a car rushed her to Manchester where she was given an hour to study an unfamiliar part. Born in Stettin, Germany, she was unable, on the advent of Hitler, to continue with her singing lessons there. She went to Jerusalem penniless and was trained as a children's nurse by Wizo. As soon as she had saved enough money she took singing lessons and later became a pupil at the Israel Conservatoire, Jerusalem. Her great opportunity came at the Edinburgh Festival 18 months ago.

ISRAELI CHAMPAGNE

This week has seen the importation into England by a well-known Jewish wine firm of a "token" shipment of Israeli champagne, and two occasions were utilised to introduce it to Jewish audiences. The first was at the launching last Sunday of the Brighton and Hove J.P.A. Campaign, when Mr. Elath, the Israeli Minister in London, was the guest of honour, and the other was at the dinner on Tuesday for the Willesden J.P.A. Campaign, where Lord and Lady Morris of Kenwood were guests of honour. At both dinners the toast of the President and the State of Israel was honoured in "The President's Israel Champagne" "יין הנשיא" as it has been labelled. The wine is a "pink" champagne, extra dry and sparkling, and it has been produced according to an original French method in the well-known wine cellars at Rishon l-Zion and Zikhron Ya'aqov.

DE GUSTIBUS . . .

There was, I hear, a course of procedure at one of the events of the European Maccabi Conference last week-end, in Antwerp, that I warmly and wholeheartedly commend to organisers of dinners, etc., in this country. In honour of the delegates, and with Mr. Romi Goldmuntz, President of Belgian Maccabi, as host, a banquet and ball for about 500 guests were held in the Salles de Chantilly of the Century Hotel. Naturally—and especially as the Governor of the Province was present, together with M. Camille Huysmans and other distinguished Belgian guests—there were to be speeches. But no one was given a chance to get bored, for the half-dozen speakers were put on immediately after the opening reception, before the banquet. Once the speeches were over, the assembly was able to get down comfortably to the serious business of eating and dancing, with the knowledge that—and may the speech-makers forgive me,—thenceforward they were quite free to enjoy themselves.

THE JEWISH MOTHER

A remarkable tribute to Jewish family life was paid in a letter from Dr. J. J. Mallon, Warden of Toynbee Hall, in THE TIMES of last Saturday. Referring to recent cases of ill-treatment of children and the possibility that an explanation is to be found in the disintegration of family life, Dr. Mallon went on to say that this disintegration "has not been of equal gravity in all communities, and to their credit Jews and Catholics have resisted it. The Jewish mother," he added, "is particularly to be extolled. She takes marriage seriously, puts the family first, loves and willingly sacrifices for her children. To her especially are due the stability and the sanctity of the Jewish home. I put her on the highest pinnacle."

REPORTER TURNS LECTURER

Reporters have been faced with all kinds of unusual situations in the course of their duties, but never before have I heard of a similar incident to the following. A colleague was asked to step into the breach when the speaker failed to arrive at last week's meeting at the Tarbut La'Am, 37, Broadhurst Gardens, N.W.6, when Mr. S. Bunim was to have spoken on "The Amateur and the Professional Theatre in Israel." After waiting for half an hour, Mr. Alec A. Abrahams, a prominent member of the organisation, asked my colleague, who was present to report the lecture for this paper, if he would open a discussion on any subject of his choice. He agreed and selected the topic of "The Power of the Daily Press."

SONS OF JACOB

Dr. A. Cohen on Defence Work

The possibility of deteriorating economic conditions, with the threat of large-scale unemployment, might bring a resurgence of fascist antisemitism, declared the Rev. Dr. A. Cohen, President of the Board of Deputies, at a meeting of the Grand Lodge of the Grand Order Sons of Jacob in London, on Sunday. Bro. B. Woolfson, Grand President of the Order, was in the chair.

Dr. Cohen was speaking on the Defence work of the Board. He stressed the continued need for funds in support of that important branch of the Board's activities. When fascism and antisemitic attacks on their people had developed, he said, it was the Friendly Society movement which first fought these attacks. Too many Jews, he continued, had the delusion that there was no more danger from fascist antisemitism, and that wrong attitude presented further obstacles to an adequate response to requests for donations to Defence work.

The present arrangement was that all moneys should go into the general funds of the Board, which should make allocations from time to time to the Defence Department, but contributions when so desired might be earmarked for Defence work.

It was unanimously agreed that the annual contribution, made by the Order to the Board, should continue.

A. B. SALMEN LODGE

Bro. Cllr. Samuel Fisher, J.P., the Grand President, made a presentation on behalf of the Lodge to Bro. Jack Simons, retiring President. Among the speakers were Bros. Philip Marcus, newly elected President of the Lodge, the Rev. Dr. Barnett Josephs, Grand Lodge Chaplain, Julius Harf, immediate past Grand President, Mr. Sears, Grand Treasurer, and L. C. Beber, J.P., and A. Kershaw, J.P., Grand Lodge Trustees.

NEO-NAZISM IN GERMANY

From our Parliamentary Correspondent

Lord Malcolm DOUGLAS-HAMILTON (Con., Inverness) asked in the Commons on Wednesday what further steps were being taken, in conjunction with the other Occupying Powers, to prevent the emergence of new Nazi parties in Germany.

He asked whether Mr. Anthony Eden, the Foreign Secretary, could confirm the story which, he said, had had fairly wide currency, to the effect that the Soviet Government was already paying £85 a month to the family of Major-General Remer while he was in gaol.

He also mentioned the story that the Soviet was making available to a former Nazi leader £765 down and £60 a week to his family and children in the event of his sudden death. Mr. EDEN said he had no information of that and suggested that Lord Douglas-Hamilton should put a question down.

FASCIST SLOGANS IN SHOREDITCH

In a question to the Home Secretary on Monday, Mr. Ernest THURTLE (Lab., Shoreditch and Finsbury) said that in the Shoreditch area of London recently there had been a number of large fascist notices on derelict walls on bombed sites. He asked what steps the police were taking to apprehend those responsible.

Sir David Maxwell FYFE, in a written reply, said that during the past year some 25 cases of defacement of walls in Shoreditch and neighbouring districts had been reported, 17 of them involving the painting or chalking of slogans which might be described as fascist.

"The police exercise all possible vigilance and have successfully prosecuted in a few cases," he added, "but detection of offenders is difficult unless they can be caught in the act."

THE NUREMBERG TRIALS

Professor Goodhart's Analysis

By a JEWISH CHRONICLE Reporter

The triumph of the Nuremberg war crimes trials was that they were a vindication of justice and right, said Professor Sir A. L. Goodhart, K.B.E., Q.C., when he broadcast a comment on Monday in the B.B.C. Third Programme on Lord Maugham's recently published book, "U.N.O. and War Crimes."

In his book, the speaker said, Lord Maugham does not dispute the Allies' right to try the war criminals, nor does he deny that the Nuremberg sentences do not depart from the ordinary practices of law. But as the book would doubtless be quoted by apologists for the Nazis, Lord Maugham's criticisms of the trials should be answered.

One was that the trials had been conducted by an international court of the victors; it should have had some neutral judges, so as to make the trials impartial. Dr. Goodhart asked how Lord Maugham could reconcile his attitude in this regard with the trial of William Joyce, an Irishman, by an English court.

Another objection which Lord Maugham had to the trials was that war crimes could not be precisely defined. But neither, urged Dr. Goodhart, could treason. If a soldier who violated the Hague Convention could be tried for war crimes, why should not an individual acting on behalf of a State be tried for war crimes?

"SOON IT WILL BE PASSOVER"

By I. L. PERETZ

(Translated from the Yiddish by Max Fine)

Soon it will be Passover. Please let me be with you at your Seder. I shall cost you very little; I do not eat dumplings.

Give me no bitter herbs; I was born with them. Nor ask me to count the plagues; I forgave the Egyptians long ago. In any event, it is a fruitless benediction; nobody has yet been stricken by the written or printed plague.

Release me, too, from the "Pour out thy wrath . . ." I am too young yet. Do not poison my blood with vengeance. . . . I hope for better times, and would not wish to curse even an idolater.

And, because words are not deeds, I do not even want to say "Next year in Jerusalem."

In the meanwhile I would wish you but this: During the year forget the whole of the Four Questions and the "We were slaves unto Pharaoh."

And, if you open the door and call out in earnest, not in the language of Laban the Aramean, "Let all those who are hungry come in and eat thereof," then let none enter. Let there be none needing to enter.

PASSOVER APPEAL FOR HOME CHARITIES

The Joint Deputies for the Chief Rabbi, Dayan Dr. I. Grunfeld and Rabbi Dr. A. Altmann, have sent a circular to Anglo-Jewish ministers pointing out that in accordance with a wish expressed by the Chief Rabbi before his departure, it had been decided to make synagogue pulpits available for an appeal on behalf of local and national Jewish charities during the forthcoming Passover, and urging that in all communities in which it had become customary to make the appeal, this year's appeal should be devoted to the cause of "domestic" Jewish charities.

"The Jewish Blind Society and the Jewish Deaf Association have for many years," the circular states, "made it possible for those among our faith who are deprived of sight or hearing to live in comfort and security, in a Jewish atmosphere and according to religious requirements. In addition to these two national organisations, which are entitled to support from Jewish communities throughout the country, there are the various Jewish Boards of Guardians and other local Jewish charitable undertakings that may wish to benefit from an appeal of this kind. . . .

"By common agreement, the proceeds of the appeal in the Metropolis will be shared in stated proportions by the Jewish Blind Society, the Jewish Deaf Association, and the London Jewish Board of Guardians. We suggest that in the provinces similar arrangements be made to cover local charities in addition to the national organisations mentioned.

"It would be best," the circular adds, "to set aside the second day of Passover for this appeal, and we ask you wholeheartedly to bring home its cause to your congregants."

Special meetings of the Council of the A.J.A. have been held at the Rose Hertz Hall, Woburn House, London, under the chairmanship of the President, the Hon. Ewen E. S. Montagu, C.B.E., Q.C., to discuss the policy, aims, and organisation of the Association.

Mr. Montagu welcomed Sir Robert Waley-Cohen, K.B.E., on his return after his illness.

The Council adopted the report of an ad hoc committee on the Trust Funds administered by the Association which advised continued support for the Evelina de Rothschild School in Jerusalem and the use of these funds for providing Israeli students from the Hebrew University and elsewhere with educational facilities in this country. A new Committee is to be set up to deal with the administration of the Trusts and the Association's educational and charitable work, and to carry out other recommendations of the ad hoc committee.

The Council also gave their approval to the appointment of Mr. Hyman Stone as a Joint Treasurer in place of Mr. Lawrence Jacobs who is to become Chairman of the Administrative Committee. Mr. Robert N. Carvalho has been appointed Chairman of the General Purposes Committee.

A further contribution made by the Association in the field of Jewish education, through the assistance of Ica, has been the appointment of Dr. D. Griffin Warwicke as headmaster of the Jewish School in Aden. This appointment is part of a general policy of refitting the school at Aden so as to provide once again satisfactory education for local Jewish children.

Lord Nathan, who by profession is a solicitor, was Minister of Civil Aviation from October, 1946, to June, 1948, and as such was largely responsible for the great development of London Airport, Heath Row.

THE JEWISH PRESS

"J.C." Criticised and Praised

By a Jewish Chronicle Reporter

Criticism of what was described as "the monopoly of THE JEWISH CHRONICLE" was voiced at the Jewish Forum, organised by the World Jewish Congress at the Anglo-Israeli Club in London, on Tuesday, when a panel of three speakers discussed the question: "Have we a satisfactory Jewish Press?"

The speakers were Messrs. Ivan Greenberg, a former editor, S. J. Goldsmith, Hebrew journalist, and R. Freeman, a lawyer. Mr. J. L. Fine, O.B.E., J.P., presided.

Mr. Greenberg said that no satisfactory newspaper could be produced without a satisfactory editor. He must possess personality, absolute integrity in fearlessly stating what he believed to be right, a long-sighted vision to see events in their historical entirety, a comprehensive knowledge of the facts, and he must pursue a consistent policy, which should be devoted, in the case of a Jewish publication, to fostering the glory and future of the Jewish people.

He added that an editor must be independent, free from outside connections, obligations, and pressure, and therefore a rather lonely man.

Mr. Goldsmith said in the course of his remarks on the Jewish press outside Israel that it was satisfactory in recording news, but failed in providing guidance. THE JEWISH CHRONICLE, like all other Diaspora papers, he said, was parochial and devoted too much space to small communal affairs. It was also biased in favour of the A.J.A., and over-emphasised the Jewishness of people who happened to attain renown in the outside community.

Jewish Masses "Forgotten"

Mr. Freeman said that THE JEWISH CHRONICLE and its editor, Mr. J. M. Shaftesley, were doing a good job. While through its communal reports THE JEWISH CHRONICLE kept the community together, its foreign news linked them with outside Jewry. Mr. Freeman said that THE JEWISH CHRONICLE could have been a better paper had it not become a monopoly, and if it had not ignored and forgotten the Jewish masses and working men.

There was now, he said, a crisis in the tailoring and textile industry, which affected adversely also the East End, but THE JEWISH CHRONICLE remained silent. For the paper was untouched by the changes which were brought about by the mass immigration from Eastern Europe; the paper was still too much concerned with the Sefardi section of the community and the rich people round the A.J.A. He suggested that THE JEWISH CHRONICLE should become a public trust in order to ensure the fair representation of all sections of the community.

Messrs. J. Sontag and S. W. Gold, who spoke from the floor, also repeated the charge of monopoly. Mr. Sontag said that THE JEWISH CHRONICLE did not encourage young writers and "ignored the appearance or disappearance" of other Jewish publications. Mr. Gold said THE JEWISH CHRONICLE was not an independent organ of Anglo-Jewish thought. It indulged in "a malicious heresy-hunt" against such organisations as the W.J.C. and the T.A.C.

Replying to the discussion Mr. Greenberg and Mr. Goldsmith stated that the final answer to the question was after all in the hands of the public. "Every community," said Mr. Goldsmith, "gets the paper it deserves."

CLAIMS CONFERENCE PRESIDIUM

Voting Rights Offer to British and French Jews

By a JEWISH CHRONICLE Reporter

Some indication of the result of the recent secret discussions in London between members of the Jewish Claims Conference Presidium and leaders of British and French Jewry is likely to be given at Sunday's meeting of the Board of Deputies.

It is learned that Deputies will be told that, as a result of demands by the British and French Jews for representation on the Presidium—the body responsible for world Jewry's reparations negotiations with the West German Government—British and French Jewries have been offered voting rights without actual membership of the Presidium. It is not clear whether the Board, if it accepts the offer, will be invited to meetings of the all-American Presidium in New York. Nevertheless, certain British leaders are inclined to be satisfied with the offer, believing that the Board's position would be tantamount to that of full membership.

The Board's representative at meetings of the Presidium to which it is invited will probably be Mr. Barnett Janner, M.P., Chairman of its Foreign Affairs Committee.

VOLUNTARY WORK & WELFARE STATE

By a Jewish Chronicle Reporter

The important place of the voluntary organisations in the Welfare State was stressed by Mr. Basil Q. Henriques, C.B.E., J.P., at the annual meeting of the Children's Fund Association of the Bernhard Baron Settlement, Berner Street, E.1, on Tuesday. Mr. Henriques, who is President of the Association, was in the chair.

Because they were living in a Welfare State, he said, there was a tendency to think there was no need for voluntary organisations. But it was quite certain that the State could not pay people to love their neighbours; that was something which must be left to people to do voluntarily and with a full heart. The Welfare State left a great many gaps, and one of the tasks of the voluntary organisations was to fill these gaps.

Dr. Sam Smith, Chairman of the Association, said that in addition to raising money for the Settlement, the Association was also trying to give personal service to the Club and to help with the supply of goods and equipment. He added that the cost of running the Settlement was £15,000 to £17,000 a year.

Mr. A. Caplin, Treasurer, submitted the accounts, which were adopted.

The following were re-elected: Dr. S. Smith, Chairman; Messrs. A. Caplin and V. Simmons, Treasurers; and Mrs. L. Benjamin and Miss R. Redhouse, Hon. Secretaries.

ANGLO-JEWISH WRITING

Mr. Max Mundlak, speaking on "Anglo-Jewish Literature" to the Friends of Yiddish at the Ben Uri Gallery last Sunday, said that Anglo-Jewish literature, the product of European, English, and Jewish cultures, was a flower of great delicacy which bloomed and faded all too quickly. Only thinking, feeling, and composing in Yiddish, even though the actual writing was in English, constituted Anglo-Jewish literature. Such literature could be created only by the children of first-generation immigrants. As Jewish immigration from Eastern Europe had seemingly ended, the creative period of Anglo-Jewish literature was nearly over, he believed.

NON-JEWISH EMPLOYEE'S CLAIM

A National Insurance Decision

From a Correspondent

A decision of the Commissioner under the National Insurance Acts, 1946 to 1951, No. R(U) 4/52 is of interest to all, whether Jews, or non-Jews, employed by Jewish firms.

In this case, the employee did not work on October 1, 2 and 10, 1951, and he claimed benefit as not being employed on those days. The employers stated that the claimant was "not paid for the Jewish holidays October 1, 2 and 10—3 days in all," because "our premises are closed through slackness of trade." They also stated that their firm had been closed on Jewish holidays in each of the last ten years. The days of closing, they say, have not been the same in each year because of the incidence of the Jewish calendar.

No payment is made in respect of holidays, and the fact that the claimant is not of the Jewish persuasion appears to have no bearing on the question of wages.

The Commissioner held that in the circumstances, although it may well have been convenient that Jewish holidays occurred at a time when there was a shortage of work, he was forced to the conclusion that, in that case, the primary reason for closing the workshop was the fact that it was customary for the employers and the majority of workers in the factory (approximately two-thirds) to observe the Jewish holidays. Although not a Jew himself, the claimant was bound by the terms and conditions of his employment at that firm to abstain from work there, because the firm was closed for a "Jewish holiday." He was therefore "on holiday" on the days in question, within the meaning of the Regulations under the Acts and, in the result, those days could not be treated as days of unemployment in his case, and the fact that he received no holiday payment was not material.

THE children of the Clapton Talmud Torah have collected nearly £20 for Jewish Child's Day this year.

He was the Honorary Treasurer of the Golders Green Mizrachi Society for many years and was very helpful in fund-raising for Mizrachi institutions and for the J.P.A. His untimely passing is a great loss to the movement; his place will be difficult to fill. Mr. Fraenkel came to England from Danzig before the last war."

MR. HYMAN LAZARUS

Mr. Hyman Lazarus, who died recently at the age of 57, was one of the prime movers in the formation of the Furniture Manufacturers' Association. He was the founder and managing director of the London firm of Hyman Lazarus Cabinets, Ltd. Mr. Lazarus was a generous benefactor of charitable causes.

She was a member of the Ladies' Guild attached to the synagogue. At a memorial service held there on Tuesday an address was given by the Rev. Ephraim Levine. The honorary officers of the United Synagogue were represented at the service by Mr. Frank Samuel and the Hon. Ewen Montagu, Q.C.

SIR LEONARD HILL

Dr. ISRAEL FELDMAN writes: "The Jewish community will wish to put on public record its indebtedness to Sir Leonard Hill, F.R.S., a great physiologist, who, very early in his brilliant career, carried out the most comprehensive scientific investigations and research on shechita. As the author, when quite a young man, of a thesis on the cerebral circulation, which has now become a classic, the physiological aspects of the Jewish method of slaughter constituted an appropriate field for his objective study. The first fruits of his special investigations on shechita are embodied in the report that he submitted to the Jewish Board of Deputies 50 years ago. The conclusion then drawn, that the cutting of the throat of an animal, as carried out by the expert shochet in accordance with the historic Jewish ritual, is, without any reservation, the most humane method yet devised, and compares favourably with any other method in practice, has withstood every attack upon shechita subsequently made. I can add that right up to within a few weeks of his death, Sir Leonard maintained his interest in shechita and that he was deep in his conviction that his original report on the Jewish method of slaughter remains unchallenged and scientifically sound."

RECENT WILLS

SPIRITUAL CRISIS IN JEWRY

By a JEWISH CHRONICLE Reporter

"We are in a great spiritual and cultural crisis," said Dr. Chaim Rabin, when he gave his presidential address on "Jewish Culture To-day," to the London Jewish Graduates' Association at the Arts Theatre Club, 5-6, Gt. Newport Street, W.C., recently. Mr. Ronald Goodman, Chairman of the Association, presided.

To-day, in Israel, said Dr. Rabin, they were faced with the fact that Judaism was not one thing, but an immense diversity of parallel cultures, and the thinking Israeli had already lost a great deal of his pride which five years ago made him believe that the only Judaism was that of his particular region of Poland or Russia.

The fight in Israel at the moment, apart from the purely political one, was still one between Jewish tradition and a traditionless Judaism, he added.

MEALS SERVICE IN JEOPARDY

Shechita Board's Aid Sought

By a Jewish Chronicle Reporter

A warning that the Kosher Meals Service for schoolchildren might have to be discontinued because of lack of funds, was given at a meeting of the London Board of Shechita, held last week at 29, Alie Street, London, E. Mr. H. Gaventa, the President, who was in the chair, said he understood that the Beth Din was to call a meeting of all those concerned with the question of the kasher canteen. He was confident that such a conference would result in definite progress.

Dayan Dr. I. Grunfeld said it was still doubtful whether the planned conference would be held, since the United Synagogue and other organisations concerned had already intimated their reluctance to take any practical measures in view of their own financial difficulties. He appealed to the Board to support his efforts to get the conference together.

Moving the adoption of the accounts for the 26 weeks ended December 28, 1951, Mr. E. J. N. Nabarro said that their overdraft had now reached unprecedented heights, and the strike at the cattle market had made things still worse. He estimated that during the past three months they had incurred a deficit of some £6,000. Their bank overdraft at the end of the month would be £18,000.

The wisdom of the Executive Committee's recommendation that "a payment of £1,000 be made to the United Synagogue for services rendered by the Beth Din for the current half-year," was questioned by several members. A proposal for reference back of that paragraph, moved by Mr. S. Gerstler and seconded by Mr. P. Goldberg, was defeated.

HABONIM COUNCIL

Over 40 delegates attended a meeting of the Central Council of Habonim recently.

Sessions were devoted to a discussion of the forthcoming Youth Leaders Training Seminar and of the Annual Summer Camp programme. The main discussion was on "Hachshara in the Gola," preparatory training in the Gola for future life in Israel. Mr. M. Margolis, of Kfar Blum, introduced the discussion. Hachshara in the Gola, he said, was the only really effective method to enable a young person to go to Israel and remain there.

JEWISH PSYCHIC SOCIETY

The annual meeting of the Jewish Psychic Society was held in the Benmor Hall, Golders Green, N.W., last week. Mr. S. Stanton, who presided, said that the Society had made progress in the fulfilment of its object of encouraging psychical research among Jewish people, and sending experienced speakers to address societies and cultural groups.

An address was given by Mr. D. Bronkhorst, and was followed by a demonstration of clairvoyance by the Jewish medium, Mr. Joseph Benjamin.

The following were elected: Mrs. Jeanne Stone, Chairman; Messrs. S. Stanton, Vice-Chairman; D. Bronkhorst, Treasurer; and a committee.

REDEMPTION OF CURRENCY

It is announced by the Secretary of State for the Colonies (Mr. Oliver Lyttelton) that Palestine currency has now ceased to circulate as legal tender in all the countries in which it has been used and that the Palestine Currency Board will shortly be dissolved. The Board has been relieved of responsibility for redemption of notes and coins as from April 1, and the assets have been transferred to the Crown Agents for the Colonies.

The Crown Agents will be responsible for the redemption of Palestine currency outstanding on March 31, 1952, and have appointed Barclays Bank (Dominion, Colonial and Overseas) of 29, Gracechurch Street, E.C.3, as their agents for this purpose. Holdings of Palestine currency should therefore be tendered to the Bank at that address for redemption.

GUARDIANS' WORK FOR THE MENTALLY SICK

In November, 1950, the Jewish Board of Guardians took over from the Jewish Refugees Committee their hostel at Maresfield Gardens, London, N.W., for the care of the mentally sick. The administration is carried out by the Board through a special sub-committee of the General Welfare Department.

The hostel can house just over 30 people of either sex, irrespective of age, and it is the committee's endeavour, in considering applicants for admission, to accept such cases where—through the advice given by the honorary consultant psychiatrist—the prognosis is such that under special treatment the person stands a chance of once again becoming a useful member of society.

During the year contacts have been made with other organisations and visits paid to mental hospitals and kindred institutions. The Department employs a full-time Welfare Officer to keep in touch with both present and past patients of Maresfield Gardens, and she also visits Jewish patients in mental hospitals in and around the Metropolitan Area. Pocket money is provided by the Department to such cases as are recommended. The Chairman of the Board's General Welfare Committee and of the Maresfield Gardens Hostel Sub-Committee is Mr. Edward W. Joseph, O.B.E.

OVERSEAS SURVEY

By a JEWISH CHRONICLE Reporter

Trade and economic conditions in Israel are among matters reviewed in the "Overseas Survey, 1951," just published by Barclays Bank.

The statistics in the section on Israel show that in the year ending September, 1951, the quantity of most agricultural products marketed was nearly 20 per cent higher than in the previous year. Citrus exports at December totalled 364,305 cases, of which 202,362 cases were shipped to Britain. The survey also gives details of new industrial projects.

THE Highams Park and Chingford branch of the Pioneer Women organised a dance at the Hackney Town Hall recently. About £100 was raised for the Children's Home at Ramat Gan in Israel.

MACCABI CONFERENCE AT ANTWERP

Plans for 1953 Maccabiah

From our Correspondent

ANTWERP

Delegates from eleven European countries and Israel, who attended the sixth annual European Conference of the World Maccabi Union last week-end at Antwerp, adopted a recommendation that the opening date of the next Maccabiah in Israel should be September 27 or 28, 1953.

The Maccabiah, it was decided, should be publicised as "The World Jewish Sports Festival."

Territorial organisations represented at the conference resolved to make every effort to collect sufficient funds, not only to pay for the food and transport of their own teams but also to help the Israeli teams. Contributions of £1,000 (including £400 from Great Britain) to the Maccabi headquarters in Israel were promised by various delegations.

It was felt that the teams, both Israeli and Diaspora, should be considered as one whole for the Maccabiah and not be divided as previously. Equipment and other material imported into Israel should serve as a permanent nucleus.

Another recommendation was that no events or training in connection with the Maccabiah should take place on a Sabbath or Jewish Holy-day.

An annual Yom Hamaccabi, it was urged, should be observed in all countries where there were Maccabi organisations.

The conference was opened on Saturday night at the Excelsior Hotel, by Mr. Romi Goldmuntz, Hon. President of the Belgian Maccabi Federation, who welcomed the delegates. Greetings from the Israeli Government were conveyed by the Israeli Minister to the Benelux countries, Dr. Michael Amir; and Rabbi Shapiro spoke on behalf of the Antwerp Jewish community.

Lord Nathan, Chairman of the European Organising Committee, said that he saluted the Israeli and Belgian flags, which both stood for freedom. He asked Dr. Amir to convey greetings to President Weizmann. Israel, he believed, welcomed the prospect of the Fourth Maccabiah with which the conference was largely concerned.

Other speakers included Mr. H. E. Bochner, Secretary of Antwerp Maccabi; and Mr. Pierre Gildesgame, Chairman of British Maccabi, who presented illuminated addresses to Mr. Goldmuntz and Lord Nathan and certificates for trees in Israel to Mr. Bochner and Mr. L. Shalit.

A delegation of 30 members of the conference, headed by Lord Nathan and Mr. Goldmuntz, was received at the Antwerp Town Hall by Alderman W. Eekelers, together with the Burgomaster, Mr. L. Craeybeckx. An old colour-print of the Mansion House in London was presented to the Burgomaster on behalf of the visitors. At a private luncheon given by Mr. Goldmuntz, the guests of honour included the Burgomaster, Ald. Eekelers, and their ladies, and Mr. and Mrs. Camille Huysmans.

The conference concluded with addresses by the guests of honour, Mr. J. M. Shaftesley, editor of THE JEWISH CHRONICLE, Mr. Goldmuntz, and Lord Nathan.

In the foreground are a number of the British delegates at a session of the conference, held in Herman House, the headquarters of Antwerp Maccabi

VICTIMS OF NAZI EXPERIMENTS

Aguda Appeal to U.N.

A call for urgent action on the part of the Federal Republic of Germany in regard to several hundred victims of Nazi experiments, who survived the concentration camps of Germany, is made in a memorandum to the Human Rights Commission of United Nations by the Agudas Israel World Organisation, London.

It is pointed out that, although details of over 200 of these cases have been sent to the Bonn Government, little has yet been done.

AGUDA AND REPARATIONS

"The Agudas Israel World Organisation does not consider itself to be represented at the present negotiations with the German Federal Republic at The Hague," said Mr. H. A. Goodman, J.P., Political Secretary of the Organisation, at a meeting of the British Agudas Israel in London on Monday. "We have," he said, "informed the executive of the Jewish Claims Conference of our firm opposition to any direct negotiations, while supporting the claims both of Israel and world Jewry to adequate reparations on the part of Germany, East and West. We are also of the opinion that the complete exclusion of European Jewry from the Presidium will create a situation which is clearly leading to dissension among Jewish representative organisations."

He had discussed with Dr. N. Goldmann the proposals of the Jewish Agency for a special status in Israel, Mr. Goodman continued. "The question of the eventual participation of Agudas Israel in an enlarged Jewish Agency," he said, "was one which could be decided only at the forthcoming Knessio Gedolo, the Agudist World Congress."

Mr. G. Heilpern (Manchester) presided.

BRITISH YOUTH ALIYAH COMMITTEE

Record Fund-Raising Year

A record fund-raising year—£115,000 as compared with £103,000 the previous year—was reported by Dr. Israel Feldman, co-Chairman of the British Youth Aliyah Committee, at the annual meeting of the Committee, held at Gunter's, London, on Tuesday. Dr. Feldman, who presided, read a message from Mrs. Lorna Wingate, co-Chairman. The Wingate Village, built by British Youth Aliyah supporters, was well under way, he said. Soon the first groups of children would be accommodated there.

Dr. Feldman thanked the hostess, Mrs. Isaac Wolfson, and welcomed the guests of honour: Brigadier Yigal Allon, Brigadier and Mrs. M. Dayan, and Mr. P. Leshem, the Israeli Consul in London.

Mrs. Miriam Warburg, General Secretary, reported on Youth Aliyah activities here and in Israel. Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt (World Patron of the Movement), she said, had been most impressed by all she had seen of Youth Aliyah's work in Israel when she visited the State recently.

Brigadier Allon said that the importance of the 40,000 Youth Aliyah graduates who had fitted into the community of Israel could not be overrated, for they formed an element of well-educated, splendidly trained, and enthusiastic young people, most of them settlers on the land, who had proved to be among the finest of Israel's fighters.

PATWA MEMBERS IN ISRAEL

By a JEWISH CHRONICLE Reporter

During the past ten months 74 members of Patwa have gone to settle in Israel. That figure did not include dependents; it included numbers of engineers, medical men, teachers, social workers, nurses, lawyers, and scientists. Patwa had now 341 members in Britain and 82 associate (student) members.

These details were given by Mr. Harry Sabel, Director of Patwa (Professional and Technical Workers' Aliyah), at the annual meeting of the organisation, held at the Anglo-Israeli Club, London, last week-end.

Resolutions were approved urging the Jewish Agency to ensure that rented accommodation in Israel would be available in the near future, which would "appreciably increase aliya of skilled persons from Britain"; and calling on the movement to intensify its activities among students and young graduates.

Jewish Agency Support

On Saturday evening Mr. Sabel welcomed the delegates at a reception. Dr. S. Levenberg, of the Jewish Agency, who was to have given an address, but who was deputising for Dr. Nahum Goldmann at the Zionist Federation Conference in London, sent a message pledging the support of the Jewish Agency to Patwa.

Messages of greeting from, among others, Dr. Walter Eytan, Director General, Israeli Foreign Office; Mr. Max Weiner, Director, J.N.F.; the Haham, Rabbi Dr. S. Gaon; Mr. Eliahu Dobkin, of the Jewish Agency Executive; and Dr. Zvi Shiffrin, Director, Patwa Head Office in Jerusalem; were read by Mr. Sabel at the Sunday morning session. Mr. A. Herzka, Chairman, presided.

The Chairman's report stated that sympathetic consideration (by the Jewish Agency) had been given to Patwa's request for rented accommodation in Israel without, so far, any concrete result. An Advisory Council, consisting of people prominent in their professions, had been set up under the Presidency of the Hon. Edwin Samuel, C.M.G. Professor Norman Bentwich, O.B.E., was a member of the Council.

Mr. Sabel, presenting the Directors' Report, said that in face of increasingly difficult conditions in Israel, the rate of aliya had been maintained.

Work in Scotland

The financial statement and reports on sections dealing with engineering, teaching, science, office personnel, nurses and medical auxiliary, civil engineering, housing, and social gatherings were submitted and adopted.

During the discussion, Mr. Victor Bell, of Glasgow, spoke of Patwa's activities in Scotland.

Mr. S. Temkin, Director of the British Z.F. office in Israel, stressed Israel's need for emigrants of the professional class, especially from the English-speaking countries, who would bring with them a high standard of ethics and civic responsibility.

Dr. Moshe Keren, Counsellor to the Israeli Legation in London, said that Israel was desperately short of skilled personnel.

The following were elected: Mr. A. Herzka, Chairman; Miss H. Kadish, Vice-Chairman; Messrs. L. Rose, Treasurer; L. Young, Science Section; Dr. S. Dimson, Medical; Mr. M. Rimmel, Legal/Economic; Mrs. P. Dimson, Teachers; Miss S. Levy, Nurses and Medical Auxiliaries; Miss H. Kadish, Office Personnel; Mr. H. Shaw, Social Workers; Mrs. F. Herzka, General; Mr. P. Goldenstein, Engineering; and Associate Members' Representative to be nominated by the J.U.J.F.

about BANKING

We would not offer advice on the fine points of women's part in house-management—but it is in our province to suggest that housekeeping is made easier with a banking account.

Many women keep an additional "House Account" for housekeeping purposes alone. You may not need two bank accounts, but we do suggest you make full use of one; let National Provincial Bank look after your financial records and leave more of your time free for those things with which we cannot help.

J.P.A. NEWS

Willesden

By a Jewish Chronicle Reporter

About £10,000 was raised at the third annual dinner of the Willesden J.P.A. Committee, held on Tuesday at Selby's Restaurant, Hanover Street, London, W.1.

Mr. J. Cinna, the Chairman of the Committee, paid a tribute to the guests of honour, Lord and Lady Morris of Kenwood, for their work on behalf of Israel.

Lord Morris said they were not merely witnessing an experiment in Statehood. Israel had something to offer to the world and it would again become one of the great nations.

Mr. Dov Beigun conducted the appeal. Mr. Alexander Margulies, the host, and Rabbi M. Spira also spoke.

Mr. Selby presented Lord Morris with three bottles of Israeli champagne, the first to arrive in this country.

Golders Green

Nearly £10,000 was raised at the launching of Golders Green's J.P.A. campaign at the Washington Hotel, W., last week. The guests of honour were Lord and Lady Morris of Kenwood, and Captain Shimon Hacohen. The appeal was made by Mr. Myer Harris, Chairman of the J.P.A. Committee.

Lord Morris said that the bill for the mass immigration to Israel was being met by the people of Israel. All they asked was that they should be helped in this task.

Messrs. Sydney Ellis, Charles Barclay, J.P. (President of the Committee), D. Manuel, and W. M. Behr, and the Rev. I. Livingstone were among those who spoke.

Highgate

About £1,300 was raised when Highgate's J.P.A. appeal was launched at a cocktail party held at the Highgate Synagogue, N.6, last week. Captain Shimon Hacohen gave an address and the appeal was conducted by Mr. S. W. Gold, Provincial Secretary of the J.P.A. Mr. and Mrs. Ian Hershman were the host and hostess.

NEW BLUE BOX CAMPAIGN

£100,000 More Yearly Expected

By a JEWISH CHRONICLE Reporter

An additional £100,000 for the reclamation and development of Israeli land will be raised annually, through the Blue Box, if the campaign now being launched in this country should prove as successful as is expected by the J.N.F.

Mr. Max Weiner

The plans, which include the placing of new boxes in Jewish households and the pledging of at least a shilling a week per box (both old and new), were outlined to me by Mr. Max Weiner, Director of the J.N.F. in this country.

Out of the 43,500 boxes already placed in Jewish homes, offices, clubs, or synagogues, only 23,000 were, so far, in London. The total income from this traditional source, he said, was £46,540 last year, as compared with over £42,800 in 1950. While the provincial communities, such as Liverpool and Glasgow, and particularly some of the small ones, were near to (or had even, as in the case of Grimsby, reached) the "saturation point," which was 80 per cent of Jewish households having a Blue Box, more than half London's Jewish homes were still without boxes. Mr. Weiner added that London, which had 20 active J.N.F. Commissions, would, therefore, be the special target of the new drive, and a conference of J.N.F. workers in the Metropolitan area had been held under the chairmanship of Mr. B. B. Landau, Vice-President of the J.N.F., last week. The Federation of Women Zionists, Maccabi (which had undertaken to place 500 boxes), and other Jewish organisations would participate in the campaign.

As in the past, the present Blue Box drive would be accompanied by house-to-house visits and the distribution of literature on Israel, and on the achievements and tasks of the J.N.F. The message of Israel and Jewish revival would be brought into every Jewish household in Britain.

Since the first official Box was produced, Mr. Weiner said, over £3,000,000 had been collected, penny by penny.

The slogan of the present campaign, which will last from Passover to Shavuot, is "Through the Blue Box, perform a daily mitzva for Israel."

NATIONAL SYSTEM OF EDUCATION

Agudist Boycott

From our Own Correspondent

JERUSALEM

For various reasons, the four religious members of the committee set up by the Government to work out a programme for a national system of education did not attend the first meeting of the 18-member committee, held here on Monday.

The two Mizrachi representatives were in the United States, the Poale Aguda delegate was attending a Knesset debate, while Rabbi Porush (Aguda) sent a letter stating that he was unable to participate in the committee's deliberations because its object was to establish a unified educational system and to abolish the various trends.

Professor Dinaburg, the Minister of Education, said the committee, which is an advisory body, had a year to prepare a programme which, for the first time, would place the entire educational system under State authority. Provision would be made, he said, to give religious education to children whose parents preferred such education.

LARGEST TEXTILE WORKS TO CLOSE

Shortage of Raw Cotton

From our Correspondent

HAIFA

The latest important industrial concern to be affected by the shortage of raw materials in Israel is the Ata Textile Works here, the largest in the country, which, because of the scarcity of raw cotton, is to close. Nearly 1,000 workers will lose their jobs. Much of the factory's output was exported.

Considerable quantities of cotton in bond at the port of Haifa cannot be released because the necessary foreign currency has not been allocated by the Government.

About 150 workers at the Vulcan Foundries here, the largest in Israel, are to be dismissed because of the shortage of raw materials.

AGAVE TO BE PLANTED IN THE NEGEV

From our Correspondent

HAIFA

A million and a quarter agave plant seedlings have arrived here for planting in the Negev. This will be the first attempt at large-scale cultivation of agave in Israel.

The plant originates from Central America. From it can be produced sisal fibre for ropes and twine as well as insulating material, chemicals, and medicines.

Cultivation of the agave plant will be extended during the next few years to 5,000 acres. Production of fibre from this acreage will be sufficient to cover the country's needs for twine and rope, while the by-products will be used in the paper and pulp industries.

"MRS. ISRAEL" PREPARES FOR PASSOVER

From a Correspondent

JERUSALEM

In common with Jewish housewives all over the world, Israeli women are preparing for Passover, but whereas the housewife in Golders Green or the Bronx is working out how many guests she can seat, Mrs. Israel is wondering how she is going to provide an adequate Festival repast for her family.

Hardened as she is to austerity, the news that the rations for Pesach may not be supplemented has come as a severe blow. The Israeli housewife, like other mortals, has her "dreams." The strain of austerity and endless queueing has its effect, and sometimes she likes to talk about the old days when guests were welcomed to the Seder and the table groaned with good things.

In those days she would build up a store of hundreds of eggs for Passover, but the present egg ration of 4 eggs per person (usually given to the children), does not allow for hoarding. In previous years the housewife could put a few eggs aside each week, by using alternatives, but most of these are not now available.

The supplementary egg ration for Passover will probably be two eggs per person; this will be given only to the urban population, and not to the settlements. The extra eggs are from a reserve built up by the central marketing agency, Tnuva, during the past few weeks. Last year local production was supplemented by egg imports from Turkey and Poland in order to increase the Pesach ration, but this year Israelis will have only local supplies. And most of those who normally resort to the black market will find that prices have increased considerably.

Potatoes and Meat

Housewives who cannot afford to replenish their empty cupboards from this source will have to rely on the following "extras" promised by the Minister for Trade, Dr. Joseph: about 4½ lb. of potatoes per person; and a small amount of meat (this depends upon the arrival of a supply from overseas). The Minister has also promised a small quantity of carp, but it is not yet certain whether there will be sufficient to go round.

Even bitter herbs are scarce this year, owing to a cut in the usual imports from Sweden. Horseradish is not regarded as one of the "indispensable" vegetables, and few farms grow it. The local product, for which there is normally only a limited demand, costs about I£2 a stick, but before Pesach it will probably be dearer—if available at all.

And what about charoset? Ten tons of delicious but very expensive apples are on the way and may arrive in time for Passover.

Incredible as it sounds, wine is also being rationed in order to increase exports. The ration will be two bottles per family. Until recently a limited supply of poor-quality, though expensive, wine was available, but if you ask your dealer for a bottle to-day, he deducts it from your Pesach ration. As for liqueurs, which have risen considerably in price, they are very difficult to obtain on the open market.

Fortunately there is some consolation for the housewife at this season: Milk production has increased and there is a generous ration for adults, as well as for children. Furthermore, we have been promised a plentiful supply of vegetables—apart from potatoes—for Pesach. Tnuva has announced that settlements are sending in an adequate supply of carrots, cabbage, radish, etc.

Israelis will also be able to vary their diet with a ration of bananas and dried fruit. In addition, Valencia oranges will be on the market before Pesach.

Despite the prospects of an austerity Pesach, morale is high and, in spite of the strain and hardship, the Festival of Freedom will be celebrated throughout the country, in town and village, by Israelis from over 50 countries, with a sense of exhilaration and deep feeling of its significance. And if Mrs. Israel does have her little grumble about the rations, she would not wish to celebrate Passover in any other country, even where food is plentiful.

TASKS OF WOMEN IN ISRAELI FORCES

From our Own Correspondent

JERUSALEM

Women serving with the Israeli forces may be trained to service aircraft or to perform naval duties ashore.

A list of duties which service women may be required to carry out was published this week in the Official Gazette, and signed by Mr. Ben-Gurion in his capacity as Minister of Defence. They include clerical, administrative, and legal work; welfare, recreational, and medical activities; engineering; cartography; maintenance work; driving (vehicles under three tons); canteen and kitchen duties; and sentry and military police duties.

Other duties may be assigned to women with their consent.

Committees, composed of military chaplains, Orthodox women and mobilisation officers, are to be established to consider applications from Orthodox women for exemption from national service on religious grounds.

FIRST ELECTIONS IN ARAB VILLAGES

From a Correspondent

JERUSALEM

Local council elections in Abu Ghosh, an Arab village in the Jerusalem corridor, and in the village of Kafr Kama, in Galilee, have been approved by the Israeli Minister of the Interior.

The elections, the first of their kind for such villages in Israel, will take place within three months. Local councils at these villages have hitherto been appointed by the Minister of the Interior.

RADIO COMMUNICATIONS SYSTEM IN ISRAEL

From our Correspondent

HAIFA

Plans to improve Israel's internal radio communications system were outlined here this week by Mr. Zvi Prihar, the Postmaster-General. He said that 14 new radio-telephone links between Tel Aviv and Haifa would be established this month.

Mr. Prihar emphasised that, because telephone lines were frequently being cut and stolen by Arab marauders, it was essential for Israel to have an efficient radio communications network.

LEAGUE OF FRIENDS OF YOUTH ALIYAH

Some 40,000 Israeli citizens who came to the country as Youth Aliyah wards and who were educated and trained under the auspices of the movement have formed a League of Friends of Youth Aliyah; its objects are to offer every support to Jewish children and youths rescued and rehabilitated by Youth Aliyah. This was announced by Mr. Moshe Kol at a press conference here this week.

CAIRO—With the sentence of six more Egyptians for arson and looting, the number of people so far sentenced for participating in the "Black Saturday" riots of January 26 has risen to over 100. The six tried this week were given sentences ranging from three to seven years' hard labour for setting fire to, and looting, a grocery store belonging to a Greek citizen believed to be a Jew. Three hundred other Egyptians suspected of being connected with the riots were arrested this week; many of them belong to the Moslem Brotherhood and the Socialist Party.

The Arab League is celebrating here the seventh anniversary of its formation. In view of the forthcoming Egyptian elections, the Arab League Council, after meeting on March 29, decided to postpone the session of the Arab League Political Committee and the meeting of the Arab Chiefs of Staff. A new date for the meetings will be fixed by the Council, whose members are unofficially remaining in session to deal with "emergencies."

BAGHDAD—Official circles here state that Iraq and several other Arab countries have accepted Pakistan's invitation to attend the conference of Moslem countries, to be held in Karachi this month. Turkey is reported to have sent an apology for its inability to take part in the conference, while Afghanistan made its acceptance of the invitation conditional on receiving assurances from Pakistan that Moslem political differences would not be discussed at the conference. The countries invited were Afghanistan, Egypt, Indonesia, Persia, Iraq, Jordan, Lebanon, Libya, Saudi Arabia, Syria, Turkey, and Yemen.

The total value of frozen Jewish assets in Iraqi banks is estimated at about £5,000,000, according to an interview given to AL ZAMAN by the Acting Custodian of Jewish Property. While in the provinces the liquidation of all Jewish frozen property has nearly been completed, it is proceeding at a slow pace in the capital because of the need to avoid "undesirable repercussions" on the local market.

MILITARY SUPPLIES FOR ISRAEL

Payments Problem

By our Diplomatic Correspondent

Since the return to Israel of the Foreign Minister, Mr. Moshe Sharett, reports have appeared which suggest that Israel is about to receive both military and economic assistance from this country. In fact, neither Mr. Sharett nor Mr. David Horowitz have done more than discuss the outlines of a scheme under which Israel would qualify for the acceptance of military aid from the West without having to pay for it.

Hitherto the position has been that Israel—like other countries not formally associated with the North Atlantic Treaty Organisation (Nato)—has been obliged to pay cash for military supplies. This obligation has, however, already been tacitly waived in the case of Yugoslavia, which is not a member of Nato, just as it was waived in favour of Greece and Turkey before these countries became members of Nato. The question now is whether a similar exception can be made in favour of Israel. This subject was discussed by Mr. Sharett with Mr. Eden and Mr. Selwyn Lloyd. The most that can be said is that the British Government is not in principle hostile to the idea.

Middle East Arms Ban

It has to be recognised that, in sponsoring such a scheme, Britain would have to overcome the obstacle created by the general ban on arms shipments to the Middle East, which was agreed upon by the United Nations at the time of the Palestine war, and reaffirmed by the three Western Powers in 1950. The ban was never meant to be permanent and all-inclusive, or intended to interfere with contractual obligations—Britain's obligations to Egypt, for example—but it did limit the dispatch of modern arms, though not of accessories and discarded war-time material which could be labelled "scrap."

Both Egypt and Israel have in fact at various times made considerable purchases in this country, but neither has so far obtained modern equipment in any quantity. It was assumed that new priorities would be established once the Middle Eastern Defence Pact had been concluded, and Israel given a place in it; but this event seems far off, and Israel is not particularly interested in waiting for it. Hence the new interest in the question whether Israel can perhaps be treated on a footing with some of the Nato members.

A solution of this kind would strengthen Israel's position in more ways than one. It would, for example, considerably ease its financial burden. This latter problem will become the subject of formal discussions at the Treasury as soon as Mr. Horowitz has concluded his negotiations with the Shell Company, Anglo-Iranian, and others interested in Israel's oil supplies and credit facilities.

ICA'S £10,000 FOR HEBREW UNIVERSITY

[COMMUNICATED]

The Council of the Jewish Colonisation Association met in London on Monday, under the chairmanship of its President, Sir Henry d'Avigdor Goldsmid. The Council elected as Vice-Presidents M. René Mayer (former member of the French Government) and Mr. Max Gottschalk.

The Council approved a new grant of £10,000 to allow for an extension of the premises of the Agricultural School of the Hebrew University of Jerusalem.

As to the Ica's work in North Africa, approval was given to the purchase of land to be used for the enlargement of the existing Agricultural School at Marrakesh, and for the settlement of a few farmer pupils of that school.

The Council also discussed the establishment in Morocco and Tunisia of loan banks to supply Jewish artisans in these countries with credits for tools and raw materials. This work is being undertaken jointly and financed in equal parts by the Ica and the "Joint."

ONLY 2,700,000 JEWS IN EUROPE

New Statistical Report

From a Correspondent

NEW YORK

More than half the world's Jews now live in North and South America, as compared with only about one-tenth 50 years ago, according to a statistical report issued here by the World Jewish Congress's Institute of Jewish Affairs.

The world's present Jewish population, the report says, is 11,000,000, the same as in 1901, though the number rose to 16,440,000 in 1939, just before the Second World War.

The Jewish population of North and South America rose from 1,200,000 to 6,000,000—from 10.9 to 52.9 per cent of the total—and that of Europe fell from 8,900,000 to 2,700,000—80.9 to 23.8 per cent—between 1901 and 1951. Wars and anti-Jewish terror in Europe, and the birth of Israel, were the main factors of the twentieth-century migration of more than 4,000,000 Jews.

Of the Jews in the Western Hemisphere, more than 5,000,000 now live in the United States, 400,000 in Argentina, nearly 200,000 in Canada, 120,000 in Brazil, and 150,000 in 18 other Latin-American countries, the report says. Of the Jews in Europe, 1,750,000 live in the Soviet Union and the other five Communist countries.

In Western Europe the sharp decline of the last 50 years has left Britain, with 400,000, and France, with 240,000, as the only "two major Jewish communities remaining," the report says. In Holland the Jewish population dropped from 150,000 in 1939 to 25,000 in 1951; in Belgium from 90,000 to 35,000; and in Italy from 57,000 to 35,000.

In the past 50 years the number of Jews in the Holy Land has increased from 35,000 to 1,400,000—representing 12.3 per cent of world Jewry.

VICTIMS OF NAZI MEDICAL EXPERIMENTS

No Aid from Bonn Government

From our United Nations Correspondent

NEW YORK

After a year of United Nations conferences the West German Federal Republic recently accepted responsibility for compensating some 200 survivors of the brutal medical experiments conducted in Nazi concentration camps. But apart from a grandiloquent statement about its "moral duty" to rectify these monstrous crimes, the Bonn Government has so far given no concrete assistance to the victims.

This is made clear in the latest edition of the official "United Nations Bulletin," which states that the U.N. is still awaiting word on the extent to which Bonn will make restitution. "Help cannot come too soon; already a number of victims have died, almost surely as a result, direct or indirect, of experimentation," the journal says.

A study of the German laws bearing on the question of compensation carried out by a U.N. legal expert shows the victims of medical experiments are not covered by the present legislation.

NAZI BOOK WITHDRAWN

From our Correspondent

MUNICH

The new edition of a book on Nazi race theories, by Professor F. K. Guenther, a notorious antisemite, is to be withdrawn, it is announed here by the publishers, Lehmanns-Verlag.

The book, "Gattenwahl," was used in German schools during the Nazi régime. The publication of the new edition last week led to demonstrations here, and the windows of Munich bookshops displaying Guenther's book were smashed. At the same time a number of leading German authors, scientists, and publishers sent an open letter to the Bavarian Parliament demanding that the book, which, they claimed, was written with the object of promoting racial discrimination, be banned.

STALIN PRIZES FOR RUSSIAN JEWS

Scientific Achievements

From a Correspondent

Jewish names are again prominent in the list of Stalin Prize-winners, just published in Moscow. If an analysis is made by nationalities, the Jews are second to none but the Russians, both numerically and in the number of first prizes obtained, though this year Jews received fewer awards for literature, having distinguished themselves particularly in technology and pure and applied science.

A third prize for literary criticism was awarded to Berta Brainin, a relative of the late Reuben Brainin, the well-known Jewish publicist. Among those awarded a First Prize for cinematography were two Jewish directors—Julius Raizman and Abram Kolcovaty. Simon Halperin, the musician, also received an award.

At least 200 Jews distinguished themselves in the sphere of science. They obtained First Prizes in the field of aeronautics, oil and coal extraction, heavy machine building, transport, etc. Many Jews, including Marek Dalin and Hesa Kaganova, received awards for achievements in chemical research. Many also distinguished themselves in agricultural research and management.

No Jews are to be found among the many foremen, workers, and farmers rewarded for their efforts to increase production. Most of the Jews named were professors, heads of scientific institutes, or factory directors.

Immigration Agreement

From our Correspondent—SYDNEY

The West German Government is to send a delegation to Australia this month to discuss with the authorities a proposed agreement to admit German workers to the Commonwealth. The delegation will tour all Australian States, it is announced here.

Commenting on this statement, Mr. S. Einfeld, Senior Vice-President of the Executive Council of Australian Jewry, said that Australian Jewry would continue to protest against the Government's plan to admit Germans. The present screening methods, he said, would not prevent former Nazis from entering the Commonwealth.

In a message to the conference of the Jewish Council to Combat Fascism and Antisemitism, held here last week-end, Dr. H. V. Evatt, the leader of the Opposition in the Australian Parliament, said that the Government's immigration policy might prove dangerous since it would allow large numbers of former enemy aliens to enter the country. He said that the tendency to create racial prejudice and antisemitism in Australia must be combated on every possible occasion.

COMPENSATION FOR EX-NAZIS

Vienna Council's Decision

From our Correspondent—VIENNA

The Vienna City Council has ruled that Nazis who, in 1945, were forced by the authorities to clear rubble from the streets are to receive payment. No records of this type of work were kept and the rates of pay will be based on the evidence of the Nazis themselves.

This decision has caused much comment in Jewish circles here, who point out that no compensation has so far been offered to the many Austrian Jews and other people who were made to do forced labour by the Nazis. It will be recalled that the Vienna City Council at one time compelled many thousands of Jews and anti-fascists to perform municipal work.

PASSOVER

IN each Jewish household next Wednesday evening the Seder Service will inaugurate the eight-day Festival of Passover. At the very beginning of that service its purpose will be proclaimed: "Thou hast given us in love, O Lord our God, appointed times for rejoicing, festivals and seasons for joy, even this day of the festival of unleavened bread, the season of our freedom, a holy assembly, as a remembrance of the departure from Egypt." And the ensuing Passover Hagada, with the unique and lovely ritual prescribed therein, cannot but impress the significance of the occasion upon the minds of young and old alike.

A main theme of the celebration is the transmission of its message from one generation to another. The perpetual observance of the Festival is repeatedly ordained in Holy Writ: "It was a night of watching unto the Lord for bringing them out from the land of Egypt; this same night is a night of watching unto the Lord for all the children of Israel throughout their generations." Past, present, and future are inextricably bound together in the narration of the Exodus contained in the Hagada: "In every generation each one of us should regard himself as though he personally had gone forth out of Egypt. Not our ancestors alone did God redeem then, but us also did He redeem with them." But the story has not only an historical but also an archetypal significance: "In every generation there have arisen against us those who would destroy us, but the Holy One, blessed be He, has always delivered us from their hands." Finally, our thanksgiving for present and past mercies commingles with prayer for the redemption still to come: "Blessed are Thou, O Lord our God, King of the Universe, who hast redeemed us and our ancestors from Egypt, and caused us to reach this night, to eat unleavened bread and bitter herbs thereon. In like manner cause us, O Lord our God and God of our fathers, to reach other appointed times and festivals—may they approach us in peace—rejoicing in the rebuilding of Thy city and happy in Thy service."

It is unnecessary to stress how extraordinarily meaningful is this aspect of the Festival to our own generation, which has survived the Nazi oppression and is witnessing the national renaissance in the State of Israel. We cannot but experience a renewed sense of the obligations and loyalties which devolve upon all who belong to the Jewish people. And we should feel strengthened in the traditions of our faith if we remember how the story of the Exodus has continually brought inspiration to those of all creeds and races. For example, this Biblical summons to freedom sustained both the suffering Negro slaves and the courageous champions of abolition. Just one hundred years ago, in March, 1852, HARRIET BEECHER STOWE published her famous work, "Uncle Tom's Cabin," which did much to advance the cause of human liberty. A century later there has been produced in a London theatre Mr. CHRISTOPHER FRY'S magnificent play, "The Firstborn." This reinterprets the Biblical story as a telling parable for our own times. It is all too evident that the world still needs to learn the lesson that Passover proclaims. Totalitarian and racial ideologies seek to impose régimes of injustice and oppression. The denial of human rights and freedoms is an offence against the Divine Law which must bring its own retribution. Let all who acknowledge the blessings of freedom work together for the world's release from its present distresses.

MIXED AGENCY

EVER since the establishment of the State of Israel, there have been desultory discussions on the status and constitution of that anomalous body, the Jewish Agency; and the 23rd Zionist Congress, held in Jerusalem last August, passed a long and comprehensive resolution which asked the Israeli Government for the granting to the World Zionist Organisation and the Jewish Agency of a legal status in Israel. The question has flared up again, following the reported agreement between the Jewish Agency Executive and Mr. BEN-GURION on the draft of a Bill to be presented in the Knesset according legal status to the Agency in Israel. One official description uses the word "defining," and not "granting," which may make a difference. The original Charter of the Jewish Agency is to be found in Article 4 of the British Mandate for Palestine of 1922, which laid it down that "an appropriate Jewish agency shall be recognised as a public body for the purpose of advising and co-operating with the Administration of Palestine" in pertinent ways in matters affecting the establishment of the Jewish National Home, and that, with certain safeguards, "the Zionist organisation shall be recognised as such agency." The Z.O. was further empowered to "take steps . . . to secure the co-operation of all Jews who are willing to assist in the establishment of the Jewish national home." Thus, the Zionist Organisation became the Jewish Agency ad interim, but finally in 1929 the "enlarged" or "mixed" Agency was set up, ostensibly composed as to one half of Zionists and as to the other half of non-Zionists representing Jewish communities in various countries.

It has been impossible throughout to define exactly what the "Zionist" portion consisted of and what the "non-Zionist," and certainly the "non-Zionist" element was never represented in the bureaucracy. But in practice the non-Zionist voice fell more and more silent, and the non-Zionists never insisted on the parity they were entitled to. Obviously, the non-Zionists, by the very fact of their joining the mixed Agency, were anxious to promote the welfare of the Jewish National Home and by that degree ceased in effect to deserve the label "non-Zionist." For various reasons, however, including both the forcefulness of the Zionist section and the inertia and shortcomings of the non-Zionists, the Agency developed into a Zionist stronghold. Thus to all intents and purposes the Jewish Agency became the most powerful Zionist organ, and it was natural that, when Israel was founded, the Agency should continue to represent Jewish interests outside the State vis-à-vis the Israeli Government. Now, the quarrel is on again, for apparently, in the view of many Zionists, the Israeli Cabinet has offered only a "compromise formula," with an insistence, they allege, on the enlargement of the Agency by the inclusion of non-Zionist bodies, as before, as a condition precedent to the according of legal status in Israel. The clash of interests has, therefore, once more begun to find open expression, and Rabbi IRVING MILLER, Vice-President and President-elect of the Zionist Organisation of America, and Professor BRODETSKY, at last week-end's annual conference in London of the Zionist Federation, have both attacked the proposal to include non-Zionists in a reorganised Jewish Agency.

The attitude of opponents to this renewed widening of the Agency is, nevertheless, quite wrong, and would only serve to keep out many influential people who, while never officially belonging to Zionist organisations, are very much in sympathy with the efforts to put Israel on a sound footing. The old days of considering the Zionist Movement as a private preserve, and, because of that, the Jewish Agency also, are gone, and great harm has been and will continue to be done to Israel and to Jews everywhere by this exclusive attitude based on mistaken political (and sometimes personal) considerations. The more support Israel gets from all Jews, the sooner will it be out of the wood and the sooner will it be able to absorb and, even more important, support those thousands of Jews who have formed the mass immigration of the past few years and those other thousands whom political events may force to emigrate to the only country willing and anxious to receive them. The task is far from finished, and to spurn help, therefore, is as foolish as it is inconsistent.

FOR CHARITY

IT is in accordance with Biblical precept and immemorial Jewish practice that the celebration of a religious Festival should include free-will offerings for charitable purposes. At this Festival of Passover, in particular, the remembrance of release from servitude and oppression should induce feelings of compassion for the needy and suffering. These feelings find vivid declaration in the open-hearted hospitality offered at each Seder table: "Everyone who is hungry, let him come in and eat; everyone who is in need, let him come in and celebrate the Passover." This invitation is nowadays a symbolical formula which expresses the underlying spirit of the occasion, and our charitable intentions have other opportunities for practical expression. Guidance on this subject is given in a circular issued to Anglo-Jewish ministers by the Joint Deputies for the Chief Rabbi. They state that it is the CHIEF RABBI'S desire that a pulpit appeal should be made in synagogues, on the second day of Passover, for the cause of "domestic" Jewish charities. The Jewish Board of Guardians, the Jewish Blind Society, and the Jewish Deaf Association are to share in stated proportions in the proceeds of this appeal. All these institutions deserve the fullest and most wholehearted support. In the provincial centres, the local Jewish Board of Guardians and similar organisations have long experience of administering relief on the broadest and most comprehensive lines. Particularly urgent is the need of the London Jewish Board of Guardians. Its various important departments continue to be vitally necessary in the interests of the community. During the last three years, however, the Board has accumulated an aggregate deficit of £63,000; and, for the first time in its history, it is faced with the imminent threat of having drastically to curtail its activities. Moreover, the community dare not neglect the obligations which it has undertaken towards those of its members who are deprived of sight or hearing. This combined Passover appeal must surely command the most generous response.

PRESS AND PUBLIC

THE refusal (reported on another page) by the Senior Warden of the Old Hebrew Congregation, Liverpool, to allow the correspondent of THE JEWISH CHRONICLE to report a special meeting of "free members" of the congregation raises matters of more than local interest, far transcending in importance the particular occasion involved. The Jewish public is not likely to be impressed by the reasons given by the Warden, Mr. HENRY CARR, for his high-handed action, still reminiscent of the Victorian atmosphere: he declared that the members regarded the synagogue as their spiritual home, and that just as their own homes were private, so was any business transacted in respect of their spiritual home. If this curious proposition is to be accepted, one is puzzled to know why an account of the proceedings was subsequently sent to the press by the Secretary. The conclusion one naturally arrives at is that the officials, despite their expressed desire for privacy, welcome such publicity as they themselves provide or inspire, disliking only any independent reporting of their activities. This attitude of mind is neither novel nor confined to the Jewish community. Only recently the House of Commons debated the subject of the admission of the press to meetings of public bodies, particularly because of the increase in statutory bodies, such as Regional Hospital Boards, in recent years, in the hope of substituting a more comprehensive Act for the one, dating back to 1908, which governs this procedure. The Bill lapsed only because of the incidence of the General Election. It is noteworthy that in his book, "The Law of the Press," the latest edition of which appeared in 1947, Mr. THOMAS DAWSON, basing his views on case law, states that "anything which invites public attention" comes under the head of "matters of public interest," and that this category includes "even the affairs of a private concern, if they affect a large number of people." Quite clearly the affairs of a synagogue with several hundreds of members "affect a large number of people." They are therefore a fair subject of comment; and comment must be based on fact, access to which has in this case been refused. A reluctance to allow facilities for representatives of the press to attend a meeting is bound to lead to the suspicion—however unjustified—that its organisers have something to conceal.

About Books

SOUTH AFRICA

The Mistaken Land. By MICHAEL ARDIZZONE. Falcon Press. 8s. 6d.

Reviewed by Alderman A. MOSS, J.P.

This is a book which has special significance in view of the Tercentenary Celebrations which are taking place in South Africa to commemorate the Van Riebeeck Settlement of the Cape in 1652.

The author refers to the emphasis which is always laid upon the Dutch contribution to the development of the Union, pointing out that even Englishmen themselves, whose families have been settled there for generations, are often disposed to belittle the British pioneering contribution, and to exaggerate the part played by the Voortrekkers. The introduction of bi-lingualism is resulting in an ever-increasing dominance of Afrikaans over English. There is no doubt that deep anxiety exists among the British, who number about 40 per cent of the white population, that some day they may find themselves completely dominated by the Afrikaaners, and that English may become a second, and non-obligatory, language.

Racial Problems

The writer expresses the view that there is no substantial conflict of opinion among the British and Dutch sections on the political treatment of natives and Indians, although it is true that in the Cape Colony there is still strong support for the United Party, who adhere to the policy of the late General Smuts in allowing to them restricted representation in the South African Parliament. It is not apparently recognised outside South Africa that although General Smuts won the plaudits of the peoples of the world for his liberal attitude to world problems, and particularly of Jews because of his strong sympathies with the Zionist cause, in South Africa itself, his political party did not reflect these progressive views adequately in the treatment of the natives and Indians. Despite the determined efforts of the Malan Nationalist Government to prevent political consciousness developing among the native and coloured population, there are already clear indications that the clock cannot be set back. What all this may have in store for the future of the peoples of South Africa arouses much foreboding among their many friends. Whether or not the author's pessimism is justified will be put to the test by events following upon the decision of the Judges of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court declaring invalid the Government's Coloured Voters Act. There are many indications of the existence of vital spiritual and progressive influences which will not be deterred from justice and equality by Dr. Malan's threats.

The chapter on the Jews is interesting because it demonstrates the part that has been played by the Jewish people in the development of the industrial life of the community, although they number little more than 100,000 in a total white population of two millions. Many Jews play an active part in the civic and political life of the country, and although the author feels that the reason for the absence of extreme antisemitism may be due to the other problems facing the Malan Government, nevertheless, he does not rule out the possibility of an inferior status being forced upon the Jews once "Apartheid" has, in fact, been accomplished. It can only be said that the Jews themselves do not feel that there is much likelihood of this being attempted, and are beginning to mix more freely, and with greater confidence, with the Afrikaaner section of the population.

NEW WORLDS AND OLD

New Worlds and Old. By CHARLES SINGER. Heinemann, Medical Books. 15s.

Reviewed by Dr. LESLIE J. HARRIS

In the world of learning Charles Singer occupies an eminent and honoured position. He is the Professor Emeritus of History of Medicine at the University of London, and the doyen among writers on the history of science. Recently he was elected an Honorary Fellow of Magdalen College, Oxford, where he had in earlier life been an undergraduate. To readers of this journal he is known also as the son of Simeon Singer, of Singer's Authorised Daily Prayer Book, and as the joint author with Edwyn R. Bevan of that fine study and anthology, "The Legacy of Israel."

"New Worlds and Old" is a book of essays, each dealing with some aspect of the inter-relations between science, philosophy, history, and religion. The opening words of the first essay, reprinted in this book from the TIMES LITERARY SUPPLEMENT, conveys sufficiently, even to the casual reader, an idea of the breadth of interest, and the wide outlook, with which he will find himself repaid by a study of the volume as a whole:

"The advent of the modern view of the material world may be said to date from the year 1543. The universe of medieval thought was a very different conception. In its centre lay the 'corruptible' spherical earth. Round it circled in order the 'incorruptible' heavenly bodies, each in its proper sphere and each sphere within the next, like skins of an onion. The influence of these bodies entered all earthly activity, disposing, if not forcing, even the human will . . . In those ages the most pressing of all questions was the extent to which man's soul was involved in this imaginary mechanism. The answer depended on the piety, the mood, or the courage of the interpreter."

A later essay is called "Science Confronts Religion," and this with four other consecutive essays are taken from "The Christian Failure," published in 1943. The theme of that work, it will be recalled, was the lamentable failure of established Christendom, in the dictator countries and elsewhere, even to attempt to follow the precept of brotherly love, and to combat the powers of evil. It is helpful to read Singer's conclusions here once again, now in an environment less immediately topical. The other essays, reprinted from various sources, although perhaps designed primarily for the scholar, will make stimulating and enlightening reading for the non-specialist also.

ILLUSTRATIONS OF PASSOVER

By J. BENDAVID

(1) Medieval matzo-baking.

THE picturesque and romantic qualities of the Jewish Festivals have throughout the centuries inspired and animated artists and illuminators. Both the traditional histories and local incidents of the Festivals find their expression in the illustrations which adorn Festival Prayer Books and Orders of Service, in the manuscripts before the invention of printing, and afterwards when the now ubiquitous art of typography threw wider still the doors of learning and of entertainment to all men.

Another prime source of artistic expression is also the ritual objects and appurtenances of the synagogue and the Jewish home, which, perhaps more intimately than in any other religion, is surrounded by a rich symbolism designed to impress and perpetuate concretely on the mind the spiritual and moral messages of Bible, Sabbath, and Festival.

Naturally, the artistic media used have been those current in the country in which a particular community happened to live; it is not the type of art applied to Jewish objects which has noticeably differed from the art of its neighbours, but only its direction towards the specific objects of Jewish use. Indeed, in medieval printing houses, woodcuts and ornamentation were sometimes borrowed indiscriminately to adorn books of widely differing character, so that a religious book might conceivably carry an illustration that figured previously in a secular work, and vice versa.

(2) The Seder Table, by Bruno Frost.

(3) Pesach bowl, Fuerstenberg ware, 18th century.

Art, too, at any particular period obviously reflects the fashions and taste of that time, and just as the famous paintings of the Middle Ages contain Biblical characters dressed in medieval clothing and set among European landscapes, so, too, did the illustrations of Jewish books sustain the contemporary style.

There is one qualification to this, however. Expense and convenience being considerations of some importance, it was found simpler by many printers to use woodcuts and, later, copper-plate engravings from stock, or to copy previous drawings, with the result that many old-fashioned pictures continued to appear over the years in successive editions, particularly of the Passover Hagada. That is why even to-day, especially in some of the cheaper Continental Hagadot that the present generation will remember from its childhood, the pictures, generally crude from the artistic point of view, have a decidedly archaic quality. That they may have a more endearing quality, despite their crudities, than the illustrations in more modern Hagadot is probably only due to the nostalgic sentimentalism that is an ineradicable part of human nature.

Domestic Overhaul

No Festival more than Passover lends itself to wealth of illustration, for several reasons. Its preparation involves, for the Orthodox, a drastic domestic overhaul, a thorough-going "spring-cleaning" in which all traces of leavened bread must be scrupulously removed, and a complete change of all cooking utensils is obligatory; chametzdik must give way to Pesachdik, and the process is thorough enough to impress itself on the minds of everyone in the family. Then, the Festival lasts eight days, and although Succot nominally lasts a similar period, Passover stands out because of the maintenance throughout it of the special dietary changes, of which the eating of matzo instead of ordinary bread is the chief symbol. Again—and most important—on the first two evenings of the Festival the home Seder celebration revolves round the set Order of Service and style of repast set out in the Hagada. As it is customary for every person at the table to have a Hagada, it will be realised how exceptional is the opportunity afforded to press home the lessons of Pesach through illustrated treatment of the volume.

SYNAGOGUE SCHEMES HALTED

From our Correspondent

MANCHESTER

Rabbi Dr. A. Altmann, the Communal Rabbi, presiding at the monthly meeting of the Manchester and District Synagogue Council, referred to the Holy Law Synagogue's extension plans costing £6,500, and said that although approval had been given to the scheme by the Church Planning Committee, on the Regional Licensing Officer's advice it had been decided (because of certain regulations) not to give permission for the carrying out of the full plans. Explaining the regulations, Dr. Altmann said that their implication was that wherever a church or synagogue had some sort of building it would have to wait until others without any building at all had obtained their premises. Although the Holy Law Synagogue's need for improvements was appreciated, it seemed they would have to wait.

At the same meeting, Dr. Altmann went on, the Great Synagogue's request to build a new temporary building in Kersal was heard. It was decided to obtain the opinion of the Regional Licensing Officer. The Church Council was most sympathetic and there was no question of bias. At the moment there seemed to be hardly any prospect for any building scheme.

Dr. Altmann spoke of the visit by American Jewish servicemen stationed at Burtonwood, to Manchester last week, where they had been entertained by the Maccabi and the Union of Jewish Ex-Servicemen. The Jewish Chaplain, Rabbi Hertzberg, had invited the President of the community (Mr. Samuel Davies) and the Rev. M. Gaguine to the camp to discuss hospitality for these men. The Rev. G. Wulwik was finding them hospitality for Pesach. It was hoped that each congregation in turn would invite them to Friday evening service and to spend the Shabbat in the homes of members.

On the question of the authorisation of marriages it had been decided at the last meeting that synagogues should in future deal with these direct with the Chief Rabbi's office and not, as at present, through the Synagogue Council, owing to the Council's difficulties in coping with the work entailed. But at this meeting several people expressed the opinion that they might have been a little hasty in their decision and they should try and see if it was possible to continue as they had done in the past.

Mr. D. Malwin asked whether in view of the United Synagogue's decision to give the vote to women this might not be copied in Manchester. But in view of the lateness of the hour, Dr. Altmann said that they would like time to consider the question.

SEFARDI ANNIVERSARY

The Withington Congregation of Spanish and Portuguese Jews celebrated the 25th anniversary of the consecration of the synagogue, at Queens Road, West Didsbury, with a special service on Sunday afternoon. The Haham, Dr. S. Gaon, gave an address, and those who officiated included the Communal Rabbi, Dr. A. Altmann; Rabbi Shemtob Gaguine, former Ab Beth Din of the Spanish and Portuguese community—and a former minister of the synagogue; the Rev. B. Rodrigues-Pereira of Ramsgate; the Rev. E. Abinun, of London, and the Rev. M. Gaguine, minister of the synagogue.

Among the congregation were the Lord Mayor of Manchester (Cllr. W. Collinson) and the Lady Mayoress; Mrs. Evelyne Hill, M.P.; Mr. L. M. Lever, M.P.; Mr. J. H. Bueno de Mesquita, President of the World Sephardi Federation; Mr. Neville Laski, Q.C., Vice-President of the Elders of Bevis Marks Synagogue; Mr. R. Azooz, representative of the Holland Park Synagogue; and ministers and representatives from all the Manchester synagogues.

An unusual feature of the service was the voluntary choir, trained and conducted by Mr. Bernard Chinn, and comprising many of the leading members of the synagogue, including members of the Mahamad. One chorister was 74-year-old Mr. Maurice Altaras, and a solo was given by boy soprano, David Sassoon.

DAVIS ROOM AT SARAH LASKI HOME

The dining-room at the Sarah Laski Children's Home, which is to be opened shortly, is to be endowed by the children of Mrs. Annie Davis to mark her 80th birthday on Monday.

Mrs. Davis, now a resident of Seattle, Washington, lived in Manchester until 1939. Her husband, the late Isaac Davis, was for many years an active member of the Board of Guardians, the organisation which is opening this Home.

The dining-room is to be called the "Isaac and Ellis Davis Room" in memory of Mrs. Davis's husband and son.

TRIBUTE TO A MINISTER

A special service was held last week at the Central Synagogue, to celebrate the silver jubilee of the assistant minister and reader, the Rev. Aaron Segal. The minister, Rabbi L. Jacobs, in paying a tribute to Mr. Segal, spoke of his beautiful rendering of the services and reading of the Torah, and said he had been a true friend and guide to every member of the congregation. Beyond the confines of the synagogue he was active in the Linas Hazedek, of which he was President, and hundreds of poor people blessed his name for his efforts on their behalf. Together with his co-workers he was responsible for the efficient running of the kasher kitchen at the Crumpsall Hospital, and he had completed twenty-five years of conscientious toil for the good of others.

For their first venture the Northern Jewish Theatre group presented the three-act play, "Prejudice," at the Blond Hall last week in aid of the Jewish Blind Society.

SWANSEA LEVY FOR DEPUTIES

From our Correspondent—SWANSEA

The Swansea Congregation at a meeting held last Sunday decided unanimously to accept a voluntary annual levy of 10s. 6d. to support the work of the Board of Deputies. The matter was raised by Mr. M. I. Coffman, the local Deputy, who spoke about the important work carried out by the Board, and particularly by its Defence Committee. His appeal was supported by Mr. Lewis Palto and Dr. J. Shibko, former Deputies.

The appointment of the Rev. A. Brysz as Chazan-Shochet-Teacher was confirmed. (Mr. Brysz had almost completed his 12 months' probationary period with the congregation.)

EVERYDAY-LIFE JUDAISM

B'nai B'rith Paper on Ethics

From our Correspondent

LEEDS

A paper on "Social Evils," contributed to the bulletin of the Leeds B'nai B'rith Lodge by the Social Service and Welfare Sub-Committee, was discussed at the monthly meeting of the Lodge yesterday week.

The Jew who carefully examines the Torah and rabbinical literature, says the paper, "will then discover that there is a moral and ethical principle for almost everything that he does in his normal life. Not only questions of business conduct; the manner in which an employer should regard his employee; the employee's attitude to his employer; the payment of a decent wage and the necessity of doing a good day's work; a person's attitude to the State in paying his just liabilities; a landlord's attitude to his tenants; and so on. Even the action of gossiping about one's neighbours is a crime against Jewish principles. . . .

"The theme, then, of this paper, is that it is the duty of B'nai B'rith not only to point out to its members and the community the principles upon which a Jew should base his business, working and daily life, but also that any infractions of these principles must be brought to his notice and condemned. If the B'nai B'rith can inculcate this sense of responsibility into Jews it will be one of the few associations which not only admits that Judaism shall be a living daily religion but that those who claim to be Jews shall be Jews in all reality.

"The B'nai B'rith might go even further and call to account those of its members against whom are laid charges of unethical non-Jewish conduct."

During a keen discussion, opinion was practically unanimous that the moral and ethical principles of Judaism should be brought home more to individual Jews. In this, it was suggested, the synagogues must take a leading part and all Jewish organisations must contribute towards the effort to make their members appreciate the all-embracing fundamentals of Judaism. It was felt that, though the B'nai B'rith could not set itself up as a tribunal to point out when members of the community fail to reach the standard required, it could; by practice and preaching, go a long way towards fostering true Jewish living among the members of the community.

SYNAGOGUE'S "PRIVATE BUSINESS"

Excluding the Press

From our Correspondent

LIVERPOOL

When, on Sunday morning, I went to the annexe of Princes Road Synagogue, where a meeting, to be followed by a special meeting, of "free members" of the Old Hebrew Congregation was to take place, I notified the Senior Warden, Mr. Henry Carr, I had come to report the proceedings for THE JEWISH CHRONICLE.

Mr. Carr told me he regretted he could not permit me to stay. He said they were not in the habit of having the press at their meetings, adding that they regarded the synagogue as their spiritual home and that, just as their own homes were private, so was any business to be transacted in respect of their spiritual home also private. I thereupon left.

I understand that after the proceedings had opened a member did suggest the press be invited and that the Chairman, Mr. Carr, in reply, repeated the statement reported above, adding that the press had, on occasion, published reports of congregational meetings elsewhere which were unedifying and that, in any case, business transacted at meetings of the Old Hebrew Congregation was the concern only of its members.

An ex-Senior Warden with whom I discussed the incident later in the day said the Secretary would always supply me with a report of what took place, but I told him that THE JEWISH CHRONICLE did not seek "hand-outs," particularly when it had a correspondent on the spot.

GOLDEN WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Levy celebrated their golden wedding recently. Mr. Levy, who came to England in 1912 and was followed by his wife and children the following year, was for many years an honorary officer of the Grove Street Congregation, and was one of its leaders when it transferred its synagogue from Russell Street in 1925. He is now a member of the Childwall Congregation. For many years he worked for the Maot Chittim Fund.

The Rev. A. and Mrs. Gersten were presented with a cheque by the Childwall Hebrew Congregation at a celebration last week to commemorate their silver wedding. A pair of silver candlesticks was also presented to Mr. and Mrs. Gersten by Mr. Gersten's Merseyside colleagues in the ministry.

Ajex Players performed Noel Coward's "Still Life" last week before Ajex members and later before the Hebrew Schools' Old Girls' Association.

NEED FOR SHECHITA STUDENTS

From our Correspondent

GLASGOW

Presiding at the annual meeting of the Glasgow Board of Shechita last week, Mr. Samuel Boston spoke of the need for training young students as future shochetim.

Mr. Louis Daets, J.P., Treasurer, presenting his report, stated that there had been an increase in the salaries of the shochetim amounting to about £500 per annum and it was necessary for them to increase their revenue to meet this additional outlay. Mr. Daets also pointed out that since the inception of the Board 15 years ago they had disbursed over £5,000 to charitable institutions.

Replying to questions in the financial statement regarding the Beth Din, Mr. Boston said that the Board proposed to inquire thoroughly into the question of the finances and the administration of the Beth Din. He announced an offer made by Sir Maurice Bloch to furnish a room in the Talmud Torah building for the accommodation of the Beth Din.

The following were elected: Messrs. L. Daets, J.P., H. Finestone, and B. Glasser, Hon. Life Presidents; I. Lazarus, S. Boston, and J. Sragowitz, Hon. Life Vice-Presidents; L. Daets, J.P., Treasurer; B. Cowen, Secretary; and Sir Maurice Bloch, Messrs. N. L. Gerber, L. G. Diamond, A. Sperber, and H. Symons, appointed members.

COMMUNAL HALL APPEAL FAILS

Housing Ministry Decision

From our Correspondent

SOUTHPORT

The Minister of Housing and Local Government has informed the Southport Hebrew Congregation that he has considered the report of his Inspector, Mr. M. C. Bennett, following the local inquiry into the Synagogue's appeal against the Southport County Borough Council's refusal to permit the erection of an Assembly Hall and Lecture Hall behind the synagogue in Arnside Road.

After giving very careful consideration to all the facts and representations, the Minister says that, while he sees no reason to doubt that the existing temporary hall needs replacement, he is satisfied that it would be wrong to permit almost the whole of the proposed new building to encroach upon the curtilage and occupy a substantial part of the back garden of a semi-detached dwelling house. Such encroachment, he says, would be detrimental to the amenities of the neighbouring residential properties.

The congregation is now to explore the possibility of using the present site to build a more spacious hall within the curtilage of the synagogue in place of the present temporary hall. This proposed new Communal Hall will be based on plans approved by the Southport Town Council in 1946.

PHILANTHROPIC SOCIETY

The following were elected at the 55th annual meeting of the Southport Hebrew Philanthropic Society: Messrs. I. Levy, President; M. Joseph, J. Kaiiiff, and A. M. Caplin, Vice-Presidents; H. Among those receiving medals awarded by the N.S.P.C.C. at Southport recently were the Misses Adrienne Solomon, Jane Goldstone, Jennifer Goldstone, Jacquelene Goldstone, and Messrs. Alan Rappaport and Michael Goldstone.

A plaque in memory of the late Mr. Samuel Gordon, for his services to further Hebrew education, was consecrated at a service in the synagogue last week, at which Rabbi Dr. Silverstone and the Rev. R. Berkovits officiated.

Beds have been endowed at the Southport Jewish Convalescent Home by Mrs. Mary Sherr and Mr. and Mrs. W. Bednash, of London; two synagogue forms by Mr. H. Cassell and family; and a menorah by Mr. C. Polak.

At an Oneg Shabbat, held at the Communal Hall, Rabbi S. Chalomish, of the Nachlat Yitzchak, Israel, spoke to the Southport Congregation on the task confronting the Vaad Hayeshivot in Israel in maintaining 15,000 pupils in its 70 Yeshivot, 100 Talmud Torah institutions, and a Beth Esther for girls. Other speakers were Rabbi Dr. A. E. Silverstone and Mr. Maurice Joseph, Senior Warden, who presided. The Rev. R. Berkovits sang Zemirot.

FIBROSITIS KEPT HIM AWAKE

5-Week Ordeal Ended by Kruschen

Maybe you can benefit from the experience of this farm worker, who thought his fibrositis was being caused by the weather. Read what he says:—

"Getting wet through, day after day, I got fibrositis in both shoulders and arms. The pain used to keep me awake all night. I tried everything to stop the pain but it seemed to be getting worse. I was like this for five weeks until one Saturday I got a bottle of Kruschen Salts. By Wednesday night all my pains had gone, and I am back at work, very thankful that I tried your Salts."—A.E.C., Middlesex.

Fibrositis—a very painful form of rheumatism—is frequently brought on by impurities which have got into the system and stayed there. If these impurities can be flushed away the pain goes too. Ordinary laxatives cannot always do this effectively because they work in only one way. But Kruschen works in two ways—aperient and diuretic—ridding the system of those rheumatism-causing impurities through both natural channels. Take a morning teaspoonful of Kruschen until pain is relieved. From then on, the little daily dose—enough to cover a sixpence—can keep you free.

KASHER IRISH SALAMI

Action in Dublin Court

From our Correspondent

DUBLIN

Yesterday week, the 13th day in an action in the High Court, Dublin, concerning the sale of salami, the evidence was concluded, and the President adjourned the hearing of legal argument until next term.

The action was brought by the Eire Continental Trading Co., Pudding Lane, London, against Clonmel Foods, Ltd., Clonmel, Co. Tipperary, claiming £8,000 damages for alleged breach of contract and breach of warranty in the sale of sausages known as kasher Irish salami. The London company alleged that seven tons of the salami had been condemned by Tottenham Borough Council as being unfit for human consumption, and that four tons had had to be sold as manure.

The Clonmel company denied warranty; it denied that the sausages were bad, and pleaded that they had been inspected and certified as being suitable before being sent to London.

BETH HOLIM

Annual Court Held

By a JEWISH CHRONICLE Reporter

A further year of useful service in looking after the aged of the Congregation was reported by Mr. Alan A. Mocatta, O.B.E., Q.C., when he presided at the general Court of Governors and subscribers of the Spanish and Portuguese Jews' Hospital, Mile End Road, E.1, held on Tuesday.

Mr. Mocatta, the President and Treasurer, thanked the Steward and Matron, Mr. and Mrs. E. Bitton, for the care and attention they had given those under their charge. The annual subscriptions and donations for 1951, he said, were substantially higher than the previous year.

The annual report, submitted by the President, stated that at the end of the year there were altogether 16 residents in the Home; eight men and eight women. In addition, the Mocatta cottages at the rear of the main building had been fully occupied throughout the year. Although there had been a reduction of £80 in the overdraft, which, last December, had amounted to £527, the cost of maintaining the residents continued to rise, and since the turn of the year there had been an expenditure of £107 on clothing.

The committee were grateful for the renewal by the Lara Trustees of the votes from the funds administered by them and for grants of £100 from the Sir Albert Levy Fund; £150 from the J. E. Joseph Trust; and £100 from the Grocery Relief Fund, the latter two having been increased by £60 and £40, respectively.

The report and accounts were adopted, and the following re-elected: Messrs. A. A. Mocatta, President and Treasurer; and H. Manuel Cansino and Major J. Gervase-Lang, Wardens.

The Office of the Rabbi of Lubavitch in Great Britain states that there will be an Education Month from next Sunday. A meeting of teachers and headmasters is to take place on April 13 at 89, Cranwich Road, N.16. A further meeting will be held on April 14.

MIZRACHI M'LAVA MALKA AT WILLESDEN

Mr. Emanuel Braham, first Chairman of the Willesden Mizrachi, and Mrs. Braham, who are on a visit to this country from Sydney, Australia, were the guests of honour at a reception and a m'lava malka held by the Willesden, Cricklewood and Brondesbury Mizrachi Societies, in the Willesden Synagogue Hall, London, N.W., last Saturday night. Mr. J. Cinna, who presided, and Rabbi M. Spira, paid tributes to Mr. and Mrs. Braham for their work for the synagogue, the local Mizrachi, and Jewish refugees. The Minister also spoke on impressions of his recent visit to Israel.

Mr. Braham, responding, said that Orthodoxy was very weak in Sydney. Jewish life and the Mizrachi with it, were much stronger in Melbourne.

Mrs. Braham (who is President of the Women's Mizrachi in Sydney) and Mr. B. Mindel, also spoke.

A NUMBER of Israeli films were presented by the Ilford and District Zionist Society at the Ilford District Synagogue, Beehive Lane, Community Hall, recently. A talk was given by Mr. W. Hirschberg, of Bachad.

RABBINIC JOURNAL

Hapardes. Vol. xxvi, Nos. 4 and 6 (January, March, 1952). Edited by Rabbi S. A. PARDES and Rabbi S. ELBERG. Aber Press, 225, Varick Street, New York. $5 per annum.

Reviewed by Rabbi K. KAHANA

This monthly journal publishes articles by prominent rabbis and scholars on Halachic subjects. It contains a literary section and also gives information on current Orthodox and rabbinical affairs and problems, particularly of the U.S.A. Numerous advertisements dealing with various Jewish activities and facets of Jewish social life are also included.

The January issue includes several contributions on the practical application of Jewish Law. These are "The Law relating to doubtful debts when they affect a Charity," by Rabbi Weinberg, Montreux; "The Conflict of Laws," by Rabbi Tumim, Detroit; and the rules governing a person who is uncertain as to whether he is a Cohen, by Rabbi Briesh, Zurich. The articles in the Halachic section of the March issue are devoted to "The Sanctity of the Synagogue." Rabbi Aaroni, in the January number, in a provocative article on the purpose and implications of a religious university, criticises the Mizrachi for promoting the establishment of such an institution, on the ground that it might develop into a rabbinical Seminary which would endanger the existence of the Yeshivot. In the March number, Rabbis Levinson and Hafterman disagree with Rabbi Aaroni and, in their articles, claim to show that he is wrong in his contention.

Great credit is due to the learned editors for having kept alive for over a quarter of a century this valuable journal, which has played and continues to play a vital rôle in spreading a knowledge and appreciation of issues which affect both American and world Jewry.

FRUSTRATED LIFE

The Stubborn Field. By GWENDA HOLLANDER. Macdonald. 10s. 6d.

Reviewed by ENID ISAACS

For her second novel Mrs. Hollander has taken a serious theme: the tragedy of the artist, frustrated from childhood and perpetually denied the right to work in his chosen field.

Her hero is a young man whose longing to be a sculptor early sets him at odds with the narrow, conventional, poor suburban milieu in which he lives. He is forced by unimaginative and poor parents to find secure but uncongenial work, and is trapped into a disastrous marriage to a worthless girl, whom he eventually strangles with the hands that strove only to create.

It is a sombre little story, and the circumstance and setting match, perhaps too carefully, its dreariness and futility. But Mrs. Hollander's point seems to be that artists (and others) must not only create in the sense of practising their art, but must strive to live creatively; and in spite of its tragic climax the book ends on a note of spiritual victory and hope.

English Costume: 200 B.C. to 1950, by Doreen Yarwood (Batsford, 35s.), is an authoritative and comprehensive work with splendid illustrations. It includes five introductory chapters on the costume of the ancient civilisations which have had a continuing influence on English costume. On the other hand, there have usually been amazing changes of fashion, as from the Biblical anklets to the modern spats. During the last 150 years may be noted the vogue and decline of the top hat, which was once a sartorial feature of the Anglo-Jewish synagogue. Developments in the tailoring industry, to which Jews have largely contributed, have had a widespread effect on recent changes.

The Year Book and Guide to Southern Africa, 1952, edited by A. Gordon-Brown (Robert Hale, 8s. 6d.), contains 900 pages of detailed information about the Union of South Africa, Rhodesia, South-West Africa, Basutoland, Bachuanaland, and Swaziland. It is invaluable for the traveller, containing an excellent 48-page atlas in colour, detailed descriptions of routes, and of main hotels, places of interest, means of transport, etc. The Year Book and Guide to East Africa (6s.) is a companion volume on similar lines.

International Monetary Co-operation, 1945-1952, by Brian Tew (Hutchinson's University Library, 8s. 6d.), surveys such subjects as the International Monetary Fund, the European Payments Union, the rôle of sterling, and the dollar gap.

The current—Spring, 1952—issue of Social Service (2s. 6d.), the quarterly review of the National Council of Social Service, includes several articles which discuss the contribution of voluntary organisaitons and religious values to the Welfare State.

the page, a sort of door, with supporting pillars, is one that became popular everywhere in the early days of printing, with its hint of "the portals of learning." At the top Moses is depicted with the Tablets of the Law; on the left-hand pillar is an angel holding a shield bearing the Magen David, and on the right another angel, whose shield bears a wine-jug; below is the coat-of-arms of Prague.

Other illustrations reproduced here come from the collection of Mr. S. Oppenheimer, of London. The amusing picture of medieval matzo-baking (1) is apparently from a cut handed down from earlier days in the printer's office, for the book in which it appears (the reproduction is slightly reduced in size) is an Amsterdam "Birkat Hamazon" of 1664. Two other woodcuts, the one depicting the visit of "Elijah" to the Seder service (11), to announce the coming of the promised Messiah, and the other, Pharaoh at a window (6) watching the Israelites, are from a Venetian Sefardi Hagada of 1716. Another illustration (8) shows again the use of the "pillars" theme: the romanticised view of the celebration of Passover by the Children of Israel camped in the wilderness, the frontispiece of a Solomon Proops Passover Machzor, Amsterdam, 1770.

The procession of Israelites leaving Egypt, in a further illustration, some of them shown on horseback, is strongly reminiscent of the illustrations of Chaucer's Canterbury Pilgrims. It comes from a Spanish MS. Hagada of the 14th century now in the British Museum, through whose courtesy this picture is reproduced. (5)

The circular picture (2) is a modern version of the order on the Seder table, with its hard-boiled egg, shankbone of a lamb, bitter herbs and parsley, and charoset, by Bruno Frost, who has finely illustrated a handsome Hagada produced in recent years by Conrad's Fine Art Publishing Company in London in a limited edition ("Passover Haggadah," edited by Lazarus Goldschmidt; illustrations by Bruno Frost; translation by Paul Goodman, £4 4s.).

The large picture (4) of the search for chametz on the eve of Passover, is a Herrliberger engraving of 1739, after Picart. The Herrliberger engravings were printed in a Swiss volume of the period, produced specially for the information of Christians on Jewish customs.

Pesach pottery of earlier times, because of their obvious fragility, are left, but the bowl, for the salt water, illustrated (in Mr. S. Oppenheimer's collection) is an example of 18th-century Fuerstenberg ware, Germany. (3)

"Elijah's Cup," of course, has its place on every Seder table. Of the two examples illustrated, the more formal goblet type (9) is in the possession of the Jewish Museum, London. It was made in Augsburg in 1761, and at the top is inscribed in Hebrew one of the four phrases used in the Bible in connection with the redemption from Egypt. The other, fashioned like an ornate tankard, was in the possession of F. Raunheim, of New York, early this century, and the picture is reproduced from the "Jewish Encyclopedia." (10)

TO-DAY'S NEED OF RELIGION

By a Jewish Chronicle Reporter

There was a great need for religion to-day and for synagogues and churches to be filled throughout the country, said Mr. Basil Henriques, J.P., on Sunday. He was speaking at a dinner held by the Social Section of the North London Progressive Synagogue (Amhurst Park, N.16), in aid of its building fund.

With so much being done for people by the State one would have thought, said Mr. Henriques, that people would be living in almost ideal conditions. Yet there was, to-day, more juvenile delinquency than ever, more broken homes, and less security, because of the threat of atomic warfare.

What was wrong in the world, he continued, was the throwing of religion on one side by people and their regarding it as superstition instead of a force that would lead them to a better life.

The dinner was held at the Coventry Street Corner House, Mr. P. Salida presiding. The Hon. Secretary of the synagogue, Mr. E. Kranz, surveyed the progress of the congregation, which was established 31 years ago and now has a membership of 400.

Other speakers were Mr. A. Lever, Chairman of the Synagogue Council, and Mr. W. Nathan, Chairman of the Social Committee.

CRISIS OF MODERN MAN

By a JEWISH CHRONICLE Reporter

Rabbi Dr. A. Altmann, Joint-Deputy for the Chief Rabbi and Communal Rav of Manchester, gave the last of the Hapoel Hamizrachi series of lectures on "Judaism and Philosophy" at the Anglo-Israeli Club last week.

Dr. Altmann, who spoke on "The Nature and Destiny of Man," said that the crisis of modern man was due to the crisis in modern man's religion. What was happening to-day, especially behind the Iron Curtain, was to reduce man to a rubber stamp with no freedom and no grace left in his relationship to his fellow-men, his God, and himself. Modern man would achieve salvation only in the measure to which his freedom as an individual was safeguarded.

Rabbi Rosenwasser, the Rev. I. Levy (Senior Chaplain to the Forces), and Mr. Raymond Goldwater, also spoke.

FEUDALISM IN OLD TESTAMENT

From a Correspondent

There were many traces even in the later portions of the Bible of the pre-Conquest nomadic life of the Hebrews, said Dr. Emil Marmorstein in an address recently to the Palestine Exploration Fund, 2, Hinde Street, London, W. The Israeli Minister to Britain, Mr. E. Elath, was among those present.

Dr. Marmorstein was speaking on "The Origins of Agricultural Feudalism in the Old Testament." Admiration for nomadic life, he said, was a theme of the Hebrew consciousness long after the community became an agricultural nation. With the conquest by the Israelites, who were then—of course—a nomadic people, the land which was captured from the indigenous agricultural population was distributed among the leading families of the invading tribes.

There came into being a landless peasant class, the gerim. The word ger was not so much a term of ethnic as of social class distinction; it applied not—as was generally believed—to the "foreigner," who had become an Israelite, but to the landless peasant. There was no rigid caste system; the ger was part of the community. He was not a slave; he enjoyed the protection of the law and, although he did not own land, he had a right to a fair share of the crops. In short, he was a freeman in a kind of feudal setting.

The Chairman, Professor G. R. Driver, presided.

COMPENSATION LAWS IN BRITISH ZONE

To the Editor of THE JEWISH CHRONICLE

From Dr. J. AUERBACH

SIR,—Reports have recently appeared in the British press that negotiations at present in progress between Dr. Adenauer and the three Allied High Commissioners to replace the present German Occupation Statute by contractual arrangements will soon be concluded. This news will be received by the innumerable victims of Nazi oppression—almost exclusively Jews—all over the world, including Great Britain, with considerable misgivings.

Despite the promises made by the Federal German Government and the respective authorities in the Länder of the British Zone, despite the endeavours made by various organisations (including this Association) concerned with the welfare of the victims of Nazi oppression, and the repeated assurances given by the Foreign Office—and although the Länder of the U.S. and French Zones, and West Berlin, have promulgated indemnification laws—no Land of the British Zone has so far seen fit to create the legal basis for the indemnification of those victims expelled from their areas and now living outside Germany—and this nearly seven years after the end of the war! Is it really expected that these Länder will now fulfil their obligations towards these unfortunate people when it is considered that nothing of that kind occurred during the time of the Occupation Statute? When tackled on this question Germans usually say that they did not participate in the horrible deeds committed by the Nazis. Even if this were so, can they not be held responsible for the deplorable fact that nothing has been done so far in the British Zone for the widows and orphans of their Jewish fellow-countrymen who were murdered in concentration camps?

The fact that the indemnification of the victims of Nazi persecution will soon be solely at the discretion of the Germans will no doubt please those of them who have so far shirked their responsibility in this matter, but it will not enhance British prestige among the good Germans, since Britain has not exercised its influence towards introducing a legislation existing in all other parts of the Federal Republic as well as West Berlin.

In contrast to indemnification laws, restitution laws (which deal only with the return of identifiable objects to those owners—or their heirs—from whom they were taken) have been promulgated throughout the Federal Republic and West Berlin though, nota bene, by the Allies and not the Germans. The execution of these laws, especially in the British Zone, has so far been very unsatisfactory (vide the report of the Sullivan Committee instituted by the Foreign Office). However, there has always been the possibility of appealing to a higher Allied court against a decision of a German court. There is now a campaign on foot in Germany, supported, one regrets to say, by a Jewish lawyer—though fortunately only by one—to replace the Allied courts by German courts. German judges have not yet proved that they are once more entitled to the confidence which the opponents of the Nazi regime had sufficient reason to lose in so many of them. We must, therefore, raise a warning against dropping the last guarantee for the execution of the restitution laws in the spirit envisaged by the Allies.

J. AUERBACH,
Chairman, Association of Democratic Lawyers from Germany.

LEAGUE OF JEWISH WOMEN

To the Editor of THE JEWISH CHRONICLE

From Mrs. FRANK SAMUEL

SIR,—As the League of Jewish Women was named in your report of the Conference of the Federation of Women Zionists as one of the bodies taking part in Jewish Women's Week, and as the quite erroneous statement was made at the conference that one of our groups had officially contributed to that fund, we should like your readers to know that the League stands for personal service, and is a non-fund-raising body.

It is contrary to the intention of its founders and to the principles of the League as such, to take part in collecting for, or to make contributions to, other organisations, or to lend its name to their fund-raising activities, but the members of the League are encouraged, as individuals, to play their full part in assisting other causes financially, both directly and indirectly, and there is no indication that they shirk this obligation. Many of them are active members of the Federation of Women Zionists, and among the sponsors of Jewish Women's Week are names closely associated with the League.

ESTHER M. SAMUEL,
President.

HILLEL FOUNDATION IN BRITAIN

Effect on I.U.J.F.

To the Editor of THE JEWISH CHRONICLE

SIR,—We have for a long time been working towards the establishment of a Student Centre in London, and we are very glad to see our efforts actively supported in other quarters. However, this scheme requires careful consideration against the background of the Inter-University Jewish Federation.

The Federation has been in existence for over 30 years, electing its officers, deciding policy at its annual conference, and carrying out an educational programme as well as other activities in an efficient manner. While many communal bodies have generously contributed to the finances of the Federation, the autonomy of the Federation has been carefully guarded—an indispensable condition of an organisation which incorporates any number of political views and attitudes towards religion.

The scheme as now outlined leaves many important questions unanswered. What will be the function of a director or other spiritual counsellor? What will be his relations with the Federation? The Federation has decided its policies and educational programme in a responsible and useful manner for some time. Does the appointment of a director mean that this work will be relegated to a paid official responsible to the organisation that pays him, without reference to the views of those whom he is to direct? Such a position would be regarded with the gravest anxiety by the whole Federation.

The Federation regards the establishment of a centre as the culmination of several years of hard and consistent effort. But a Hillel scheme such as that which exists in the United States would radically alter the character of the I.U.J.F. to the detriment of the latter. We, therefore, feel that the details of the scheme should be carefully examined in the immediate future.

That the need for a centre in London exists will not be denied by anyone in close contact with Jewish students in this country. The fact that the colleges of London University are spread throughout the capital; the lack of opportunity for Jewish students (in common with other students) to organise a society within most of the technical colleges; and the many students coming from the provinces and overseas who would appreciate a centre, are just a few of the reasons which point to the outstanding need for a suitable centre.

The suggestion that the creation of a centre might help to "over-organise" Jewish students and lead to a ghetto mentality, is, we believe, entirely without justification. One might as well argue that the various centres which exist for other national and religious groups prevent their members from associating freely with other students. Nothing could be more erroneous. If we have to guard against any danger it is surely that of assimilation, the likelihood of which is perhaps more apparent within the universities than in any other walk of life.

The struggle against assimilatory influences is, without doubt, the most important task of the I.U.J.F., and in the establishment of a centre for Jewish students we see the prospect of increasing our ability to be even more effective than hitherto.

MALCOLM GOLDMAN,
Chairman, I.U.J.F.

77, Woodford Road,
Forest Gate, E.7.

SIR,—The problem of creating a university, as opposed to a collegiate, life in London has not escaped the attention of the Senate, and when "conditions permit" extensive University of London Union premises are to be built in Russell Square, which will house all university societies, including the Jewish Society.

Bearing this in mind, I would like to suggest that the B'nai B'rith should enlarge the scope of the proposed Student House into one that will create a centre for all the younger members of the community—bringing together students, graduates, club managers and workers, members of literary societies, and of the numerous Aid Committees.

While each society will no doubt wish to retain its own individual character, the fact that members of these groups are meeting under one roof at the same time, would lead to their meeting each other socially, and so help to form a community instead of the present set-up of isolated groups. Joint activities would lead to valuable exchanges of outlook and ideas.

As a community centre the project could claim support from the participating groups, which could add to the keen but necessarily limited support of I.U.J.F.

Membership of a student centre would be for an average of three years only, whereas members of a community centre could belong until their thirties. Affiliation to the centre of a number of societies would mean that the facilities would be fully used every night.

A chance to meet the young, active members of the community would encourage the student, on leaving the university, to enter the life of the community, since through the centre he would already have got to know the various groups.

BARBARA WRIGHT.

Bedford College,
London.

FUTURE OF CHAZANUT

To the Editor of THE JEWISH CHRONICLE

SIR,—In his letter on the "Future of Chazanut," Mr. Steinmetz (in your issue of March 28) tells us that he is a worshipper. May I make some observations on this subject, speaking as a lover of chazanut?

I, too, am worried at the length of synagogue services; not only because they are too long in duration for my personal comfort, but also because they facilitate complaints from congregants, and thus involve chazanim in needless controversy. But I think that most people will agree that while the old-fashioned Baal Tefilla contrived to make the services shorter he nevertheless depended in some measure on chazanut. Let me qualify this.

A notable feature in the smaller congregations and synagogues is the abundance of melody employed. Even private minyanim have their own Niguním, improvisations, for each particular part of the service. And while the Baal Tefilla did not indulge, indeed could not indulge, in vocal artistry, he none the less incorporated some music in his repertoire.

For, in truth, music has this power to move the hearts of man to contemplation and prayer. One need look only to the classical period to observe this: who has not been moved to fraternal good will and peaceful intentions on hearing the final stirring passages of Beethoven's Choral Symphony? The surge of great music unites races and creeds alike. Similarly, synagogal music is an integral part of the Jewish liturgy, and it is to be deplored that a statement made by a chazan should evoke only an allegation of indulgence in operatic performance!

Nevertheless, Mr. Steinmetz is not far wrong in saying that synagogue services resemble opera, for the word "opera" in Latin means "works," and what are the musical compositions sung by our chazanim and choirs but sacred works? Assuredly services are too long, but, then, the Jew is accustomed to long services; he spends hours and days in Divine worship; should we, then, deprive him of the means to worship the Almighty amidst beautiful sentiments, marvellously expressed?

DEPUTIES' ATTENDANCE AT THE BOARD

To the Editor of THE JEWISH CHRONICLE

SIR,—The final session of the present Board takes place on Sunday of this week. May I respectfully bring to the notice of synagogues and Jewish organisations represented on the Board, to make it their business to peruse the attendance records of their Deputies, in the Board of Deputies' annual report, and to see to it that they elect only men and women who can pledge themselves to attend sessions as regularly as is reasonably possible.

I was amazed when I read in the report of the small attendance record of so many Deputies. The Board of Deputies of the future needs live members, not in name, but workers for the benefit of our community.

REMINISCENCES OF LAST WAR

To the Editor of THE JEWISH CHRONICLE

SIR,—The publication, "Marine Cohen, C. of E." (in your March 28 issue), reminds me of several last war incidents.

Personnel of an army camp were requested to contribute towards the restoration fund of an adjoining church. Cpl. Golding, a staunch Zionist and a persuasive man, was appointed organiser. He performed his duties with distinction, and received a letter of thanks from the religious authorities.

A few readers will remember a happy occasion when we were guests of a small community at a Seder service. A Gentile friend, Eric, accompanied us, without disclosing his religion to our hosts. He behaved respectfully and sampled the food and wine with much relish. On departing a gentleman gravely informed him that because he looked like a goy was no excuse for being unable to read a word of Hebrew. Eric appreciated the hospitality. Some of the chaps were invited to his home for a Christmas party.

THE REPARATIONS TALKS

Allegation of Distortion

To the Editor of THE JEWISH CHRONICLE

From Dr. FELIX von ECKARDT

SIR,—In your issue of March 21 your paper reported a conversation which I had with Mr. Maurice Carr on March 19 in Paris.

Without at first going into the details of your article, I should like to stress that Mr. Carr has distorted the meaning of my statements which were carried only by the unlimited wish for moral and material restitution.

Apart from the unfortunate political effects of such publication it grieves me personally very much to be cited in your paper in such a manner, and that imputations are made which in no way express my conception and manner of thought in respect to the Jewish people.

As to three points of my statements the interpretation was not correct. I neither said nor intimated that the Federal Chancellor had been compelled to force the idea of a payment to Israel upon several members of the Cabinet; on the contrary I stressed the Chancellor's warm-hearted consent to the recompense, which was fully supported by the whole Cabinet.

Furthermore, I did not say that the German delegation was not authorised to deal with Israel. I stated that the German delegation had primarily the task to receive the proposals of the delegation of Israel, and that I admittedly did not know whether the German delegation had already received any authority to make proposals of their own.

I mentioned only in passing that save for those who drew profits from Jewish property in Germany, there are also others against whom this reproach cannot be held.

These Germans now had to give away their possessions received by them as restitution for property requisitioned by the Nazi State.

I have made mention of this merely in order to give an idea of the innumerable legal difficulties involved.

VON ECKARDT,
Chief Press Officer,
German Federal Government.

Ermekeilstrasse 27, Bonn.

[Mr. Carr writes from The Hague:

"Dr. von Eckardt told me categorically, repeatedly, that the German delegation to The Hague had received no authority to offer anything. Events have since, unfortunately, proved him correct. The German delegation did in fact arrive here without authority to make proposals of their own. Does Dr. von Eckardt's letter imply that a German move is pending to empower their delegation either to accept the Israeli claim or make a counter-offer?

"His assurance concerning his 'unlimited wish for moral and material restitution' is to be welcomed, as is his statement about 'the Chancellor's warm-hearted consent to the reparations, which was fully supported by the whole Cabinet.' I wrote that Dr. von Eckardt 'conveyed the impression' that Dr. Adenauer had to persuade reluctant members of his Cabinet to the idea of reparations to the Jews. 'I still think he conveyed that impression, but if I was mistaken, then his present statement is all the more to be welcomed.

"Dr. von Eckardt's last point requires little comment from me. He told me there were 'thousands of cases' where unhappy Germans stood in need of restitution: the Germans, not the Jews, were the victims. He spoke with some feeling and precision, citing in particular one instance of a house in Bremen where he lived."—Ed. J.C.]

VOTES FOR WOMEN

To the Editor of THE JEWISH CHRONICLE

SIR,—I was delighted to read your editorial (in your issue of March 14) concerning the United Synagogue Council's acceptance of the principle of votes for women. I heartily endorse your views that the franchise should not depend on ability to pay.

About 15 years ago you were good enough to publish letters from me when I was advocating synagogue votes for women. At that time there was great opposition and even to-day there are no votes for women in Manchester synagogues.

I consider that the United Synagogue Council have taken one of the most far-reaching and commendable steps in regard to the conduct and management of their places of worship, and, as you so aptly put it, recognised a "fundamental principle of human rights."

With the approach of elections in synagogues throughout the country, I think it is a matter of most urgent and serious moment that all synagogue councils should consider this admirable lead by London.

"THE FESTIVAL OF PURIM"

The Author's Reply

To the Editor of THE JEWISH CHRONICLE

From Rabbi Dr. J. LITVIN

SIR,—"Among the most 'ancient traditions' of Judaism is the constant incorporation of new truths and the continuous self adaptation to changing exigencies," writes Dr. E. J. Cohn (in your issue of March 14). This is, in my opinion, only a half truth and as such most harmful. The history of Judaism, from the day Abraham broke the idols of his father and repudiated the paganism of Ur, till our time, consists of a fearless defence of the noblest and wisest doctrine of life against all attempts to pollute it. Judaism, our sages taught, is pure oil which never mixes with water. According to Dr. Cohn it is a sponge, Suum cuique!

Only the hopelessly biased can deny the connection between the German seminar on Semitics and Hitlerism. Any fallacy was useful to the servile, spineless German professors. The Bible was mutilated, the Talmud despised, Judaism slandered, history forged in order to show that the Jew had nothing to be proud of. According to this Seminar Jews aped the Egyptians, the Babylonians, the Romans, the Arabs, and the Europeans. In a word: Sponge Judaism. Here is one of the greatest scholars of our time:

"Towards the text of the Old Testament, as represented by the Massoretic Hebrew, there was a rooted suspicion, and commentators vied with one another in the ingenuity with which it was emended. Where any version could be invoked in favour of a change its support was welcomed, but where no version could be laid under contribution it mattered little. Any guess was to be preferred to a text which was assumed to be untrustworthy." (Professor H. H. Rowley, "The Old Testament and Modern Study," p.xv.)

"Die Wissenschaft des Judentums" was conceived under the influence of that Seminar and the spirit of the Seminar continued to dominate all its branches.

The "Wissenschaft" participated in mutilating the Bible; belittling the Talmud; ridiculing our traditions (who can exceed Geiger in mocking the Dietary Laws!) in regarding the Cabbala and Chassidism as children of superstition and fraud, in preaching contempt for Eastern European (i.e., the bulk of) Jewry. These are facts which no honest scholar can deny! Whoever dared to oppose the "Wissenschaft" was decreed an ignorant fanatic. But science and scholarship are undergoing a revolution shattering the foundations of the Seminar and its illegitimate daughter the "Wissenschaft." Above all, in the fires of Auschwitz, of the Warsaw and Riga ghettoes, not only did millions of Jews perish but also a purified attitude to Judaism was born. Politically the State of Israel was re-established. Spiritually the yoke of the "Wissenschaft" must be shaken off so that the dead shall not have died in vain.

Dr. Cohn writes of Purim: "It was written some 300 years after the event and—last but not least—the telling similarity of the names of the chief characters of the Babylonian and Elamite gods and goddesses, Marduk, Ishtar, Vashti, Humman, and Zeresh, render this attitude [that the story is not historical] of contemporary scholars entirely intelligible." What an excellent illustration of the method of the "Wissenschaft!" Everything against Purim! And yet the ignorant totalitarian Jews continue to celebrate Purim, and THE JEWISH CHRONICLE devotes articles and even leaders to it. What a shame! What would one say if a "scholar" relegated past English history to the realm of myth for the simple reason . . . of the telling similarity of the names of many kings to the Christian saints George, John, and others. Every intelligent child knows that names of Christian saints are popular in Christian countries. The same is true of some countries of the ancient Persian kingdom, where the theophoric names were widely used (see "Names" in the Catholic Encyclopaedia).

Dr. Cohn accuses others of ignorance. Seemingly he does not know that in Persia even the exiled Jews acquired names of local deities, as was proved in 1893 by the discovery in Nippur of hundreds of clay tablets, mostly commercial documents (Dubnow, Vol. 1, p. 300, 3rd German edition, Berlin, 1925). Recent discoveries have confirmed one fact: the descriptions of the Persian Court and administration in the Megilla are true to the smallest detail. If it was written 300 years later when the ancient Persian kingdom had long ceased to exist (it fell about 100 years after the Esther story) then this is nothing short of a miracle.

How Dr. V. Stern (in your issue of March 14) can deny that Graetz relegated the story of Esther to the realm of myth beats me. In the English version edited under the author's supervision the story is not mentioned. In the second volume of the German edition there is a reference to Purim, as Dr. Stern himself quotes: "It was supposedly established in the memory of this event." Graetz states that the Megilla was written in the days of the Maccabees. In a note there (on page 343) Graetz refers the reader to page 254, hinting that Purim was the Judaised form of the pagan "feast of the jars," described on page 254.

Graetz did render certain services to the study of Jewish history, but he also mutilated the Bible, belittled the Talmud, misunderstood the Cabbala and Chassidism, and had contempt for Eastern European Jews. Dr. L. Goldschmidt (translator of the Talmud) wrote: "The reader of Graetz's corrections must lament the flouted honour of our Torah." (HAMMELIZ, 17 Tammuz, 5655). A critic stated: "His last volume Graetz filled with indecent Berlin saloons (fashionable brothels) which were more important to him than the communities in Eastern Europe." And here I may reveal that a sentence in my article ("Clad in sackcloth though he be, Mordecai possesses a soul nobler than any duke or baron in his castle and in his flowing robes") was directed against these sentences by Graetz, which have revolted me since my early youth:

"'All these absurd fancies [of the Chassidim] owed their origin to the superstitious doctrines of the Cabbala . . . In his "Stubel" or "Hermitage" i.e., in his dirty little retired chamber, he [the Zaddik] considered himself as great as the Papal Vicar of god upon earth in his magnificent palace." (Graetz, volume V, p.404, London, 1901.)

Points from Letters

MIKVA FOR UTENSILS

In connection with the approaching festival of Passover, residents in N.W. London may be interested to learn that a mikva for the Tvilas Kelim (ritual immersion of new utensils), is attached to the Willesden Synagogue and is available for use throughout the day. Entrance to the mikva is through Heathfield Park on the right side of the synagogue.—B. FREY, Secretary, 143, Brondesbury Park, N.W.2.

SEDARIM AT OSE CANTEEN

The Ose Canteen at 109/111, Stamford Hill, N.16, will be open as usual during the whole of Passover. In addition, Communal Sedarim will be held, admission to which will be by ticket only which must be obtained in advance.—(Mrs.) L. SELIGMAN, 109-111, Stamford Hill, London, N.16.

SEWING-MACHINES FOR ISRAEL

Several of our girls' homes in Jerusalem, and in the transit camps of Israel, have asked us to supply them with sewing-machines for their handicraft classes. The five machines which they had were stolen during the war in Jerusalem and cannot be replaced locally. If any of your readers has a spare sewing-machine available (it should be in proper working order, as spare parts are unobtainable in Israel) we would be most grateful. If they would kindly communicate with this office we would give the necessary delivery instructions and arrange for shipment direct from London to Israel.—SELINA SASSOON, Chairman, Beth Jacob Central Administration, 257, Seven Sisters Road, N.4.

VALUE OF TALMUD TORAHS

Referring to the report of the symposium (in your issue of March 14) on the Jewish School, with which Rabbi Dr. Schonfeld and I were recently associated, I appreciate the fact that owing to shortage of your valuable space, only a curtailed account of the proceedings could be given. Would you, however, allow me to explain the reasons for my emphasis on the importance of synagogue classes and Talmud Torahs. I, together with all other enlightened educationists, wholeheartedly desire the establishment of as many Jewish day schools as possible in the community and, especially in London. I pointed out that at present all the Jewish day schools in London accounted for some 2,000 Jewish pupils. There are, however, 25,000 Jewish children of school age in Greater London, for the majority of whom there are not sufficient places in Jewish day schools. There is, therefore, a large number for whom Jewish religious education has to be provided in our synagogue classes and Talmud Torahs. It was in this setting that I emphasised the value of these institutions.—(Dr.) ISIDORE FISHMAN, Director of Education, Woburn House, Upper Woburn Place, London, W.C.1.

TEFILLIN FOR MOROCCO

An urgent letter has just been received from Rabbi Pels, Director of the Hillel Colleges, Morocco, appealing for Tefillin, used or unused. There is an acute shortage of them, and the work of religious rehabilitation among the youth there is seriously hampered through this cause. Would anyone who has any Tefillin to spare kindly send them to Mr. M. Jaffe, 6, Halliwell Lane, Manchester, 8, who is kindly organising this section of activity on behalf of the Hillel Colleges.—(Rev.) L. OLSBERG, Hon. Secretary, 93, Bury Old Road, Prestwich, Lancs.

TWO MINUTES' SILENCE AT SEDER

As an intermission between Kiddush and the ritual at the Passover Seder table would it not be appropriate to institute a two minutes' silence to honour the memory of the six million of our brethren?—ALEX ROBINSON, 293, Middleton Road, Manchester, 8.

TRAVEL NOTES

Kenya Castle Inspected

By "Green Flag"

At the invitation of the Union-Castle Line I inspected last week at London Docks the new 17,000-ton liner, Kenya Castle, before her maiden voyage in the round-Africa service of the company. I was delighted with this latest vessel from the Belfast shipyards of Harland and Wolff, which, of course, has early Jewish associations. For one thing, it is the type of ship I like best, with one class only. There is ample room in every one of the cabins, which are well furnished, a great proportion having natural light. All the public rooms, furnished in modern style, are on one deck. I was particularly interested in the Gallery, a room containing a miniature library; in the reference section I noticed with pleasure a copy of the new edition of "The Jewish Chronicle Travel Guide."

The vessel had just returned from a "shakedown cruise" to the Mediterranean. Speaking to the Chief Steward, Mr. J. J. Paddon-Baker, I was told that there were many Jewish cruise enthusiasts on the trip, on which kasher food was served, and Jewish religious services were arranged.

Every vessel in the Union-Castle fleet carries ample supplies of kasher meat, certified by the London Jewish Ecclesiastical Authorities. "Nevertheless," added the Chief Steward, "we always like to know in advance the particular requirements of our Orthodox Jewish passengers, so that we may meet their wishes as far as possible."

The question of obtaining kasher food during cruises and on coach tours on the Continent continues to be a vexing one. A reader suggests that Orthodox Jewish cruise enthusiasts and coach tourists might well request a vegetarian diet, and take with them a supply of canned kasher meats.

Arrangements for senior holiday groups in July and August have been made by the Habonim movement. There is to be a training camp at the Eder Farm at Horsham, and rambling, construction, and Kibbutz camps in other centres. Full details can be had from Mr. A. J. Flax, Habonim Camps Committee, 67, Great Russell Street, W.C.1.

Fruit Cake

Fine meal, 6 oz.; dried fruit, 8 oz.; castor sugar, 4 oz.; chopped peel, 1 oz.; margarine, 4 oz.; cinnamon, ½ teaspoonful; mixed spice, ½ teaspoonful; bicarbonate of soda, 1 level teaspoonful; tepid milk, 1 tablespoonful; 3 eggs.

SIEVE meal and spices. Cream the margarine and sugar, then add lightly beaten eggs, one at a time, adding a spoonful of meal with each, then add the cleaned fruit, peel and the remaining meal and the bicarbonate of soda blended with the milk, mix thoroughly, turn into a prepared tin and bake in a moderate oven about 1½ hours (375°—Regulo No. 4).

Sponge Cake

Fine matzo meal, 3 oz.; castor sugar, 6 oz.; 4 eggs; grated lemon rind.

SEPARATE the yolks and whites of the eggs and beat the yolks with the sugar until nearly white; add the meal and grated lemon rind lightly, then fold in the stiffly whipped egg whites. Turn into a greased shallow tin—about 2 in. deep—and bake in a slow oven about 50 minutes (350°—Regulo No. 3).

Note. If preferred instead of separating the egg yolks and whites, whisk the eggs and sugar together until very light and frothy and nearly white. Fold in the meal and lemon rind lightly and bake as above.

Sponge Sandwich. Divide the mixture between two well-greased sandwich tins and bake in a moderate oven (400°—Regulo No. 5) 25-30 minutes. When cold, sandwich together with jam or lemon curd.

Potato Flour Cakes

Potato flour, 4 oz.; castor sugar, 3 oz.; margarine, 2 oz.; bicarbonate of soda, ½ teaspoonful; 1 egg; flavouring.

CREAM the margarine and sugar, then add the lightly beaten egg and a little grated orange or lemon rind. Sieve the potato flour and bicarbonate of soda and fold in lightly. Turn into paper cases or well-greased patty tins and bake about 10 minutes in the upper part of a hot oven (450°—Regulo No. 7).

Plain Cake

Potato flour, 4 oz.; fine matzo meal, 2 oz.; margarine, 6 oz.; castor sugar, 6 oz.; 3 eggs; flavouring.

SEPARATE the yolks and whites of the eggs; melt the margarine but do not make it hot. Sieve the meal and potato flour together. Beat the egg yolks and sugar till very light, add the melted margarine, then the potato flour, meal and flavouring. Beat the egg whites to a stiff froth and fold in lightly. Turn into an 8-inch cake tin lined with greased paper and bake in a moderate oven about 1½ hours.

DORA CLASS SICK SOCIETY

The annual meeting of the Dora Class Sick Benefit and Divisional Society took place recently at the Bayswater House, 111, Blenheim Crescent, W.11.

The President, Sister T. Arram, in her report, stated that during the past year the Society had performed many acts of charity.

The principal officers were re-elected. Mr. H. Green was the Installing Master assisted by the brethren of the Bayswater Benefit and Divisional Society. The principal officers installed were: Sisters T. Arram, President; L. Sandground, Vice-President; B. Richards, Treasurer; I. Cohen, Secretary; T. Arram, J. Tonchin, and C. Class, Trustees; B. Kreegar, R. Shapps, S. Miskin, and B. Harris, Auditors.

Presentations were then made to Mr. M. Freedman, who had been the Secretary of the Society for the past few years, and to Sister and Mr. F. Feldman on the occasion of their ruby wedding.

WILLESDEN SCOUT GROUP

By a Jewish Chronicle Reporter

The 27th Willesden Scout Group celebrated its 27th anniversary, in association with the Second Brondesbury Girl Guides, with a fun fair and musical revue at the Anson Hall, Chichele Road, N.W., on Sunday.

The Mayor of Willesden, Ald. Trevor Evans (who was accompanied by the Mayoress), declared the celebrations open. Part of the proceeds are to be devoted to the Middlesex Handicapped Scout Fund.

Mr. Leo James, the Group Scoutmaster, told me that they were the largest Jewish group in the country. They had 150 members aged from eight to 25, and there was, in addition, a Guild of Old Scouts with 70 members.

When the Group was formed by Mr. Eric Barnett it was associated with the Cricklewood Synagogue, but during the war it removed to the Willesden Synagogue. Rabbi M. Spira is the Chaplain and Mr. Ellis Goodson, J.P., President.

1,770-MILE MOTOR RALLY

Among the 13 women drivers who are competing with men in the 1,770-mile Royal Automobile Club's International Rally, which began on Monday, is Miss Sheila Van Damm of London. She is sharing the wheel of a Sunbeam Talbot with Mrs. Molly Hardman.

More than 200 motorists are participating in this test. The drivers had a choice of two starting points—Hastings or Scarborough.

Miss Van Damm came third in the Women's Section of the Daily Express Rally of 1950, with her sister Nona, and fourth in the Monte Carlo Rally as a member of the Rootes Team.

HELPING HANDICAPPED JEWISH CHILDREN

By a JEWISH CHRONICLE Reporter

A school for handicapped Jewish children is to be opened this year in Bristol by the Jewish Association to Aid Backward Children, it was stated at a concert held by the Association at the London Casino on Sunday. Over £5,000 was raised.

Mr. F. Ashe Lincoln, Q.C., a Vice-President of the Association, appealed for communal support.

Mr. K. B. Pick, co-Chairman with Mr. E. Ainley, said that the school would have accommodation for 60 pupils.

Manchester School

Laski House, Manchester, has been purchased by the Committee of the School for Jewish Backward and Handicapped Children, and thus has founded the first Jewish school of its kind in the United Kingdom. The sponsors are Mr. M. Baker and the Rev. G. Wulwik.

BERGMANN ATTACKS

Wins Table Tennis Championship

By a Jewish Chronicle Reporter

Richard Bergmann won the English table tennis singles championship for the fifth time, equalling the record held by another great Jewish player, Victor Barna, when he beat Johnny Leach in the final at Wembley last Saturday evening.

Bergmann surprised everybody by repeatedly going on the attack and not relying on his almost invincible defensive skill. It was in fact this change of tactics that turned the fortunes of the match.

The score of 21-6, 18-21, 21-12, 21-18, in favour of Bergmann, gives no idea of a sparkling game, full of wonderful retrieving and great attacking shots.

Bergmann's adoption of more aggressive play is probably due to his experience in the last world championships at Bombay, when he was beaten by the Japanese, Fujiji. He had previously won the world championship four times.

Willesden Champion

Ronald Bernstein won the Willesden junior table tennis championship for the fourth time recently. In an exciting final he beat A. Hill, R.A.F., Hendon, by 21-15, 19-21, 21-19. The championship has never before been won four times by the same player. E. Gelfarb, of Maccabi Association, London, was beaten in the men's singles, and Miss H. Litman, Maccabi Juniors, in the girls' singles final. Two Maccabi players, D. G. Glazer and F. Jacobson won the men's doubles championship.

EGERTON YOUTH CLUB

The Egerton Jewish Youth Club, which caters for youth in the Stamford Hill area, is in need of cricket and table tennis equipment, and gramophone records. The Hon. Secretary is Miss Marina Goldenberg, 71, Cranwich Road, N.16.

Sidney Burns, of Egham, Surrey, a member of the Staines Jewish Youth Club, played for Walton and Hersham in the semi-final of the Amateur Cup against Walthamstow Avenue. Sidney, who joined the club at the beginning of the season, has represented his county, Surrey, and was chosen for England in a World Youth Soccer Cup Competition. He is also a skilful cricketer.

Lew Lazar, the Aldgate Jewish welterweight, was again in fine form when he knocked out Jack McCarthy (Hornchurch) in the fourth round of their fight at the Empress Hall, London, last week.

£50,000 FOR TRAINING OLYMPIC ENTRANTS

ILFORD CLUB'S AMBITIOUS REVUE

By a JEWISH CHRONICLE Reporter

Ilford Jewish Youth Club's revue, presented at the Poplar Civic Theatre on Monday and Tuesday, was seen by over 2,000 people. The guests on Monday included the Mayor of Ilford, Cllr. P. V. Faning, the Mayor of Poplar, Cllr. J. Bond, and Mr. A. H. Silverman, Secretary of the United Synagogue.

The revue was one of the most ambitious of its kind ever presented by a London Jewish youth club. There was a cast of 60, and the programme included songs, dances, and sketches. The producer was Mrs. Rosalind Brown, and the musical director, Mr. Les Brown. Margery Manners and Phil Phillips were guest artists; Bernard Spear was compere.

Dr. I. S. Gold, the Club Leader, told me that the membership of the club had increased to 250. There was a lack of helpers and the accommodation was inadequate, but the boys and girls were showing fine enthusiasm and the club was a very active one.

PEGASUS CLUB

Officers elected at the annual meeting of the Pegasus Club, held at the Communal Hall of the Palmers Green Synagogue, Brownlow Road, N.11, recently, were: A. Isaacs, Chairman and Treasurer; P. Kloss, Vice-Chairman; C. Adler and S. Lowenberg, Secretaries; and R. Hershman and I. Allison, Council Members.

A presentation was made to the retiring Treasurer and Secretary (Mr. H. Temerlies and Miss E. Winshank), who are shortly to be married. Mr. I. Seifert was elected President.

The West Central Club will benefit from the proceeds of two performances of Emlyn Williams's "The Late Christopher Bean," presented by the Alumni Society of the Liberal Jewish Synagogue, at the Twentieth-Century Theatre recently. Those taking part were Michael Davis, Tessa Jordan, Valerie Norman, Pat Myers, June Karet, Dennis Mayer, Hugh Isaacs, David Weingott, and David Gluckstein, who was joint producer with Jacqueline B. Weiss.

A supporters' section of the Penfield Rovers (Edgware) Junior Jewish Football Club is to be formed for the 1952-53 season. Further particulars are obtainable from the Chairman, Mr. M. Heller, 88, Penshurst Gardens, Edgware.

Magnetism of the Seder

By "AUNTIE"

PESACH will be with us next week; and there is nothing to my mind more wonderful than the Seder service. It possesses features that appeal to different temperaments: psalm and song, story and symbol are woven into a wonderful pattern. Seder night draws everyone home like a magnet and results in a happy reunion of family and friends round the table.

Hospitality is a feature of Jewish home life, so it is appropriate that the opening words of the Seder service are, "Let all who are hungry come and eat."

I expect you are familiar with the setting of the Seder table, but I hope you will forgive me if I remind you about each item and what it stands for.

First, we provide for the drinking of four cups of wine at different times during the ceremony. They are, the Hagada tells us, in recognition of four different expressions used in Exodus to denote the liberation that was to come: הוצאתי (I shall bring out); הצלתי (I shall deliver); גאלתי (I shall redeem); and לקחתי (I shall take).

We use three matzot (that have been specially watched during the processes from growth to baking), instead of the two challahs that we have on Sabbaths and other holy-days. Two are the customary ones and the extra one is for the special Pesach Beracha על אכילת מצה. These matzot are usually placed in a special embroidered case.

Then we have a roasted egg on the table—a symbol of the extra offering that was sometimes brought, before the Pesach offering, in Temple days—and a lamb bone, which is a reminder of the sacrifice that the Jews brought to the Temple.

The bitter herbs, מרור, recall to us the bitter moments our ancestors endured in the terrible days of slavery, but the bitterness is sweetened on this Seder evening by the sweet-tasting charoset, symbolising the sweetness of freedom enjoyed afterwards.

The Seder service is not a hurried one: from the very beginning, when the youngest of those present eagerly asks his four questions, to the last song, it is a leisurely but dignified celebration. Questions will be welcomed by your father, I am quite sure, but there is one I am going to anticipate, one that crops up each year. It is: "What do the four sons mean?"

The Four Sons

There are many explanations of these four types (the wise, the wicked, the simple, and the non-inquiring), but this, I think, is what is meant: The wise son, asking his thoughtful questions, is answered fully by the father. He believes in the freedom of speech and is willing to learn from his elders. But not so the wicked son. He does not identify himself with the others, but scornfully excludes himself from the congregation, and this must lead to his downfall. The third son is timid and is able to put his question only in a very simple manner, but he realises his duty as a Jew and glories in the story of his ancestors. The fourth son is unable to find words at all to ask, but his father, seeing his difficulties, starts to tell him in simple words and hopes that he will understand what it is to be a Jew.

This, then, is the Seder table, around which the family are joyfully seated. It weaves a strong bond of family affection that will last throughout their lives.

And here's wishing you all a very happy Pesach!

HASMONEAN SCHOOLS
By a Jewish Chronicle Reporter

The Boys' School of the Hasmonean Grammar Schools had, during the past year, been given full recognition by the education authorities, said Mr. R. Epstein, when he presided at the school's annual Speech Day and Prize Distribution, held in St. Pancras Town Hall, London, recently.

Rabbi Dr. S. Schonfeld, Principal of the schools, said that their object was the same as the Hasmoneans: the advocacy of a fighting, practical, and popular religion.

The Headmaster, Mr. W. W. Stanton, said that there were now 450 pupils at the three Hasmonean schools. One of their boys, R. Walden, had won a State Scholarship and an Open Scholarship in Classics at Oxford University. Another, I. Caplan, had been chosen to represent Middlesex in the English Schools' Sports Championship but had been unable to take part because the competition was held on the Shabbat.

Mrs. S. Herman, Headmistress of the Girls' School, said that the curriculum was expanding and they were developing the teaching of Modern Hebrew.

Mr. Noel F. H. Butcher, Education Officer, Borough of Hendon, commended the Hasmonean Grammar Schools because the movement had its roots in absolute sincerity.

Cllr. Patmore, of Hendon Borough and Middlesex County Council, suggested that the letters of the word "Jews" might stand for "justice; endeavour, experience, and example; work and worship; and service."

Mrs. Butcher distributed the prizes; and Philip Epstein, Head Boy, and Sarah Bornstein, Head Girl, also spoke.

AVIGDOR PRIMARY SCHOOL
By a Jewish Chronicle Reporter

Presenting the annual report at the Speech Day of the Avigdor Primary School, held recently at the school's Samuel Witte Centre, 65, Lordship Road, London, N., the headmistress, Dr. Judith Grunfeld, said that they now had three infant and six junior classes with a total enrolment of nearly 250. The staff were guided by a sense of responsibility for the future of Judaism in this country.

Rabbi Dr. S. Schonfeld, Principal of the Jewish Secondary Schools, said that they were looking forward to the time when additional buildings would enable them to raise the number of pupils in the primary school to 500 or 600.

Mr. S. Goldberg, Chairman of the Parents' Association, also spoke.

Mr. S. Witte, Life Governor of the school, presided, and the prizes were distributed by Mrs. Witte.

LADIES' GUILDS

The annual meeting of the Ilford and Valentines Park Federation Synagogue Ladies' Guild was held recently. The following were elected: Mesdames. J. Simons, Chairman; B. Feldman, Treasurer; B. Ettinger, 19, Coventry Road, Ilford, Hon. Secretary.

At a recent meeting of the Woolwich and Plumstead Ladies' Guild the following were elected: Mesdames D. Sefton, Chairman; M. Marmot, Vice-Chairman; R. Jacobs, Treasurer; and M. Turner (375, Westmount Road, S.E.9), Secretary.

At the annual meeting of the Wanstead and Woodford Ladies' Guild last week the following were elected: Mesdames H. Alper, Chairman; A. Granditer, Vice-Chairman; A. Brooks, Treasurer; L. Sedley, Hon. Secretary; S. Glogowsky, Asst. Secretary; and E. Kaye and A. Rattner, Auditors.

Miss Miriam Moses, O.B.E., J.P., gave a talk to the Golders Green Synagogue Ladies' Society recently. Mrs. I. Livingstone, the Chairman, presided. Miss Moses outlined the varied aspects of the work of a magistrate and gave her views on the causes and treatment of delinquency. Mrs. Alfred Woolf and the Rev. I. Livingstone also spoke.

TYPES IN CHASSIDISM
By a Jewish Chronicle Reporter

In a lecture which he gave to the Society for Jewish Study last week, on "Types of Chassidic Piety," Mr. J. G. Weiss, of Jerusalem, said that it was a mistake to think of Chassidism as a uniform movement, for such a view took no account of vital differences that existed within it, from the theological point of view.

Mr. Weiss, whose address was delivered at 33, Seymour Place, W., under the chairmanship of Dr. Oskar K. Rabinowicz, dealt with two varieties of Chassidism: one a mystical conception, the other based on faith. The first was exemplified by the Great Maggid, Rabbi Dov Ber, and his disciple Rabbi Schneer Zalman M'Ladi, the founder of the Chabad movement; and the second by Rabbi Nachman, of Braslav.

BATS £10,000,000 RISE IN PROFITS

A rise of more than £10,000,000 in profits, at £32,387,296, is shown by British American Tobacco Company for the past year. Beside the ordinary trading profit there is a "devaluation" surplus on dollar leaf of £1,703,000 this time against £4,833,000 the previous year. Taxation charge is up from £7,059,000 to £9,064,000. British American is the company which, many years ago, took over the export business of Imperial Tobacco, although the latter company still retains a large interest. The stock market was pleased with the profit increase, but considered the maintenance of dividend at 3s. a share tax-free somewhat over-conservative.

The directors of Cow and Gate, the baby food company, are increasing the year's distribution. Dividend is to be 8½ per cent on a capital increased by the 100 per cent scrip bonus. This is equivalent to 16½ per cent against 15 per cent on the smaller capital. The payment takes £65,832 against £62,071. Group profits have risen from £571,013 to £657,895 and tax requires £434,170 against £382,721. After bringing in over-provision for exceptional expenditure in previous years and allowing for estimated tax etc., the net result is some £26,000 higher at £320,183—a very encouraging showing.

Savoy's Profitable Year

"Festival Year" was a profitable one for the Savoy Hotel, the company which also owns the famous "Claridges" and "Simpsons," both favoured by overseas visitors to these shores. Revenue amounted to £513,370 against £472,628, and shareholders are getting an additional 2 per cent bonus, which means a total distribution of 12 per cent against 10 per cent. This is the best dividend by the company for over 20 years.

Bondor, manufacturers of hosiery and lingerie, are maintaining the year's dividend at 20 per cent, but payment is on a capital increased by a three-for-37 share bonus last year. The directors further propose to capitalise £50,000 of share premium account in issuing one 5s. unit for every 12 now held. Profit for the year is shown to be some £263,400 higher at £1,071,295 before tax. The actual tax deduction is up from £390,200 to £606,450. A sum of £250,000 against £200,000 is taken to reserve. Mr. J. Goodenday is chairman of the company.

SPIRITUAL CENTRES OF JUDAISM

By a JEWISH CHRONICLE Reporter

With the disappearance of the ancient Jewish State and the destruction of the Temple, it had always been the centres of Jewish learning and Jewish spirit which had provided the nation-preserving focus in the Diaspora, said Mr. L. Gertner at a meeting held by the Education Department of the Federation of Women Zionists, 107, Gloucester Place, W., on Tuesday.

After referring to some of the Jewish centres of learning in Babylon, Spain, and Eastern Europe, the speaker maintained that the new spiritual centre could be only in the State of Israel.

Miss B. Gudansky presided.

LASKY'S

Lasky's Radio, Television, Cycles, Ltd., opened their new premises at 223, High Street, Shoreditch, E.1, last Friday, when Freddie Mills, former light-heavyweight champion of the world, and George and Bert Bernard were among those who attended the opening ceremony. Others present included the Mayors of Hackney and Stepney.

Radio sets were presented by the firm for homes for the aged in both these Boroughs as well as the Borough of Shoreditch.

BUILT-IN FURNITURE

To one who has looked on built-in furniture as a necessary evil, Chippendale's Workshops offer some pleasant surprises. Mirror-covered doors, decorative mouldings picked out in gold or a contrasting colour, interesting ways of using Empire timbers banded with, for instance, sycamore—are all shown. One wardrobe had panels covered in a terra-cotta wallpaper patterned in white snow-crystal stars. Dressing-tables built into bay windows, and various bed-head fitments can be seen. Interior fittings are designed with the user's convenience in mind—for instance, drawers are made to take two shirts side by side, glass fronts are used on some drawers. This furniture is not cheap, but it is an investment in these days, particularly in houses and flats where every foot of space must count.

Music

ISRAEL'S MUSIC

At the Royal Festival Hall, on Monday evening, a "Concert of Israel's Music" was given in aid of Nachlat Goldbloom-Janner. Two fine soloists, Gertrude Holt and Campoli, and the London Jewish Male Choir, together provided a programme which was almost entirely Jewish in material, provided one accepts Mendelssohn's Violin Concerto, of which Campoli played the last two movements, as falling within that category. The choir, under its conductor, Martin White, showed to great advantage in the acoustically sympathetic hall, their tonal colouring being particularly well brought out. In the lower register Gertrude Holt has developed a tonal charge which can convey a tragic nuance, beautifully exploited in certain of the Kisilevsky songs in the "Song-Cycle of Jewish Life." This group admirably represented the composer. Sidney Crooke was the perfect accompanist.

BEN URI ORCHESTRA

The Ben Uri Orchestra, which made its début at the Adolph Tuck Hall on Sunday afternoon, is, one hopes, a permanent addition to Jewish musical life. Led by Hans Geiger, and consisting of amateurs with a stiffening of professional players, it has been developed by its conductor, Bernard Jacob, to a high degree of efficiency. It is vigorous yet clean in attack, and its upper strings especially have a fine bite and precision. Ensemble work is of a high quality already, and if other departments are not so outstanding as the strings, that is more a question of balance than material, as the solo work in Haydn's "Le Midi" Symphony showed. The programme, in addition to Haydn and Mozart and Honegger's "Pastorale d'Eté," included Matyas Seiber's "Besardo Suite No. 2" and Schönberg's arrangement of Monn's Concerto for 'cello and strings with continuo, in which Brigitte Loeser and Paul Hamburger were the soloists. Finally, Montague Zolowsky, with Doris Lasserson accompanying, sang a group of five Hebrew songs, revealing a decided advance over his work before he went to Israel. H.C.S.

MAURICE EISENBERG

Maurice Eisenberg gave the first two of three recitals of Bach's 'Cello Sonatas at the Wigmore Hall last week. He is playing all six of the Unaccompanied Sonatas, and the three for 'cello and piano: two solo, and one accompanied in each programme. Mr. Eisenberg plays these sonatas well on the whole, with sometimes slight faults of intonation in the slow movements, and occasionally odd noises in the fast ones, but one must remember that until Casals played them these works were considered unplayable, and, indeed, are still thought so by many. One may say that he more nearly achieves the impossible than one could have hoped. The two accompanied sonatas were very well played by Mr. Eisenberg and Ivor Keys, and are a much more practicable proposition. They flowed pleasantly, and always in excellent ensemble.

CONWAY HALL

The Hirsch Quartet at the Conway Hall on Sunday showed that they are one of the few real quartets, as opposed to four people who happen to be playing together. Their ensemble is good, and particularly their tone blends so well that they sound like one player. They played the Brahms Quartet in A minor Op. 51 No. 2 very well, and the Debussy Quartet in G Minor beautifully. The latter work was a memorable performance. The Quartet was joined by Harry Isaacs in the César Franck Piano Quintet in F Minor, an uneven work with which they never really came to grips. Mr. Isaacs did not fit in with them as well as might have been hoped, and ensemble between all the parts suffered as a result. J.P.S.M.

SERGE BLANC

At the Wigmore Hall last week Serge Blanc, a young French violinist, displayed considerable technique which served him well in Viotti's concerto No. 22 in A minor and Beethoven's sonata in G, Opus 30. His rhythm in the Bach Chaconne was not nearly strict enough. He did not seem to have sufficient grip of the first movement of Schumann's sonata in D minor Opus 121 although the remaining three movements showed him to be a promising and sensitive young artist. Hubert Greenslade was the accompanist. P.Z.A.

Theatres

UNCLE VANYA

John Fernald is an expert on Tchekov and his touch has not failed him in the production of "Uncle Vanya" at the Arts Theatre. It is a play of mood and of atmosphere, and the gentle sorrow of frustration. Cyril Luckham, as Vanya, brought out all the sensitivity of the disappointed man, and evoked great sympathy, especially in the final scene. Helen Shingler showed once again an accomplished technique in the part of Elena. Seldom has there been a more moving moment than that of her parting with the doctor, acutely played by John Justin. C.L.

HER DAUGHTER'S WEDDING

Enough gaiety and song has been packed into the current play at the Grand Palais, "Her Daughter's Wedding," to make the whole a diverting musical. But a number of serious strains run through the piece, such as a mother's blindness, a daughter's wickedness, and a father's disappearance; and their treatment is as unsubtle and melodramatic as any seeker for simple theatrical fare could desire. There is a jolly ending in which all participants are neatly paired off for future bliss. Berta Gersten heads the cast as the mother (and also produces the play). Ida Sherman is the daughter, and Isaac Krelman the father. A.B.L.

FILMS OF THE WEEK

Five Fingers (Leicester Square Theatre) is one of the best spy pictures I have seen. It presents the startling but possibly true proposition that the Nazis were actually in possession of the time, date, and place of the D-Day landing but, believing that the information was too good to be true, distrusted its source and intent, and took no further notice of it. Their informant was James Mason, giving a suave performance as the trusted valet of the British Ambassador to Turkey, who photographs top-secret documents and sells them to the enemy. A go-between is needed, and Mr. Mason chooses Danielle Darrieux, a charming but unscrupulous Polish countess. Their transactions lead to a terrific climax; and the director, Joseph L. Mankiewicz, ends with a piece of laughable if implausible anti-climax. The film is adapted from L. C. Moyzisch's "Operation Cicero."

Chicago Calling (Gaumont, Haymarket) is unashamedly a "weepie," with the extenuating circumstance of an original, if unlikely, twist to the plot. Mary Anderson, the wife of Dan Duryea, shiftless ne'er-do-well, leaves him, taking with her their little daughter. The child is seriously injured in an automobile accident and the wife promises to let her husband know by telephone the result of a surgical operation on the child. Unfortunately, the telephone company will not listen to his plea to keep the telephone connected in order that he may receive the call, rejecting his promise to pay the long-overdue bill. The story is mainly concerned with his efforts to obtain money to keep the phone on. In his adventures he comes into contact with a little boy, Gordon Gebert (who gives one of the most appealingly natural performances seen for a long time). This talented youngster forms the connecting link in the chain of events that culminates in the unhappy ending.

Tall Headlines, which is also in the programme at the Gaumont, Haymarket, deserves only the briefest of footnotes. It is a well-intentioned but tiresome post-mortem on the impact on his family of the hanging of a murderer. His mother, Flora Robson, lapses into introspective moodiness; his father André Morell, is beside himself trying to obliterate the family identity; his sister, Jane Hylton, is frightened to fall in love in case her secret reaches the ears of the man of her choice; his brother, Michael Denison, reaches the stage when he thinks he is being dominated by the same evil passions that led the killer to the gallows. The film achieves a fatuous finish, with the talents of such as Mai Zetterling, Dennis Price, and Mervyn Johns frittered away. Joan Hickson furnishes the one touch of reality with a cameo of a waitress. F.H.S.

BRISTOL THEATRE ROYAL

Mr. C. Landstone as General Manager

The Old Vic has taken over the management of the Theatre Royal, Bristol, which has hitherto been run jointly by the Arts Council and the Old Vic. Mr. Charles Landstone, who is retiring from the Council, will continue as General Manager of the Theatre on behalf of the Old Vic. The appointment will be part-time.

Mr. Landstone has been invited to become a member of the Arts Council Drama Panel—and has been appointed first Honorary Counsellor of the Council of Repertory Theatres (C.O.R.T.). He has also accepted honorary appointments to the Boards of the London Arts Theatre, The Bankside Players (Regent's Park Open Air Theatre) and to two provincial repertory companies.

treating collective recompense to Israel and indemnification and restitution to world Jewry on the same moral and material level as Germany's commercial debts to 40 creditor nations was at once strongly contested both by the Israeli and the Jewish Claims Conference delegations. Germany's obligations to Jewry arose out of wholesale robbery, torture, and murder, unprecedented in the annals of mankind, whereas Germany's external debts derived from commercial transactions. Germany, with the blood and property of 6,000,000 Jews on its hands, was expected to manifest unequivocal willingness to pay and not to argue about its capacity or incapacity to do so.

Because of the veil of secrecy, presumably indispensable, which has hung over the talks, no precise information is available as to how the Israeli and Jewish Claims Conference delegates presented their case and how the Germans responded. An Israeli spokesman, however, has now stated that, in the initial stages of the talks, the Germans gave certain formal assurances in writing which were deemed acceptable.

Thereafter, the Israelis proceeded to submit their claim in painstaking detail. At first, it seemed likely—at any rate the Germans openly said they anticipated—that the first "exploratory" phase of the conference would continue until the holiday recess. The Germans—quite legitimately, according to Israeli sources—carried out an extremely thorough interrogation into the claimed absorption into the Jewish State of 500,000 survivors of Nazi persecution at an average cost of $3,000. Dr. George Josephthal, however, who, as head of the Jewish Agency's Absorption Department for the past six years, is credited with being able to talk on every aspect of the problem, is reported to have given a brilliant account of himself. He answered to such good purpose that within a week the Germans had no more questions left to ask.

German Undertaking

Last Friday the senior official of the German Federal Ministry for Refugees paid a one-day visit to The Hague, attended a conference session, and took back to Bonn a dossier on absorption presented by Dr. Josephthal. The Israelis politely but very firmly indicated that the time had come for the Germans to commit themselves on the $1,000,000,000 claim. At this point a difference of opinion as to the meaning of the secret written assurance previously given by the Germans apparently arose.

Mr. Gershon Avner, the Israeli spokesman, told me emphatically that he interpreted it as a German undertaking to reach a tentative agreement on Germany's over-all obligations to Israel, subject to ratification by the Bonn Government.

Professor Boehm told me quite categorically that the position of his delegation, as formulated in the opening statement of the Germans, had not changed in the slightest, and that he still was not empowered to make any kind of offer. The fog of uncertainty was blown away, to the relief of all concerned, when Professor Boehm and his fellow-delegates abruptly took off for Bonn on Tuesday.

It is understood here that, after tripartite consultations between the German delegation from The Hague, the German delegation from the London Debts Conference, and the Chancellor, Dr. Adenauer, there would be a meeting of the German Cabinet, which would issue new instructions to Professor Boehm.

Bonn Government's Obigations

It is worth recalling that, as late as Sunday night, when Professor Boehm was already contemplating his trip to Bonn, he unambiguously reaffirmed to me in an exclusive interview attended by two other leading members of his delegation, that "whatever decisions the Federal Government makes after my delegation and the German delegation to the London Conference have reported back, will be made wholly within the framework of the total German obligations."

He went on to say: "When a debtor is as insolvent as Germany is, and has 40 creditors, he cannot come to an arrangement with one creditor separately, but must compound simultaneously with all creditors. I know that sounds as if Germany were trying to be evasive, but that is not so. Germany wants to behave as a responsible and fair debtor to all creditors alike." Asked if it was "fair" to put Germany's commercial debts in the same category as its unique obligations to Jewry, he replied: "It would not be fair if we made a settlement with our other creditors without regard for Israel, and conversely it would not be fair if we made a settlement with Israel without regard for our other creditors."

Professor Boehm refused to prophesy how long it would be before the London Conference would reach the stage where Germany could have a clear picture of its overall commitments. He further declined to make any statement on Germany's ability to pay, maintaining that at present this was not even known to the Bonn authorities, because all the relevant archives had been shipped in packing cases to London.

As the interview ended, Dr. Frowein, the Secretary of the German delegation, observed: "If I had the misfortune of being a journalist at The Hague, I would pack my bags and proceed to London—that is where the really decisive conference is taking place."

Professor Boehm, a university professor, is undoubtedly one of the most influential of the "good Germans," but even so he does not seem to rate his powers as high as those of Dr. Abs, the principal German delegate to the London Conference, who is definitely known to be hostile to the idea of reparations for the Jews.

Before the enforced adjournment the joint Jewish Claims Conference and the German sub-committee had completed a study of all 24 Jewish claims and had submitted to the plenary meeting a report on "the areas of agreement and disagreement reached."

All is now abnormally restful and drowsy in the Hotel Kasteel Oud Wassenaar, where the conference is being held. Only the Dutch detectives, joined by an Israeli colleague, who sit drinking tea outside, are wide awake.

Security Precautions

Additional security precautions have been taken since Monday, when the German delegation received a bomb through the post. It was addressed to the German Legation here and forwarded to the hotel where the German delegation is staying. Dr. Frowein, to whom the package was addressed, finding another smaller envelope inside, grew suspicious and called in the police. The police found in the small envelope an electric battery connected with explosive.

A neo-Nazi rather than a Jewish terrorist organisation is believed in high Dutch official quarters to be responsible for sending the bomb. This belief is supported by circumstantial evidence. The sender obviously possessed inside knowledge of the workings of the German Embassy at The Hague. According to Baron von Toerg, the Secretary to the German Embassy, who, incidentally, also expressed to me the view that neo-Nazis might well be the culprits, the bomb was posted from Amsterdam, not to the official Embassy address but to an annexe which does not appear in the telephone or other directories.

A letter sent with the bomb was signed "Organisation des Partisans Juifs," which has claimed responsibility for the bomb attempt on Dr. Adenauer. This is a fictitious organisation.

Professor Boehm, in an interview he gave to me directly after the opening of the talks, mentioned the fact that he had been the recipient in Germany of many threatening letters from neo-Nazis because of his friendly attitude towards the Jews.

Because of the political implications the investigation into the incident is in the hands of the Dutch Attorney-General's Office, and police in Germany, Belgium, France, Britain, Switzerland, Israel, and other countries are being asked to make inquiries.

ISRAELI DELEGATES' LIMITED POWERS

From our Own Correspondent

JERUSALEM

The progress of the talks at The Hague is not regarded as a cause for dissatisfaction in official quarters here, where it is emphasised that the Israeli delegation has no power to make decisions and is in daily contact with the Foreign Office to receive instructions. Two members of the delegation are expected to return here shortly to receive personal instructions.

It is pointed out here that the nature of the negotiations and the basis on which they were begun—the cost of rehabilitating nearly 500,000 displaced persons—would naturally result in further information being asked for by the Germans.

POLISH NEWSPAPERS CRITICISE ISRAEL

From a Correspondent

WARSAW

Both the Yiddish and general press here this week gave considerable prominence to the reparations talks between Israel and Germany at The Hague, at the same time renewing their attacks on the Ben-Gurion Government and Jews in the West.

The FOLKSTIMME, in an article entitled "Schwartze Mechutanim," attacked the Israeli delegates for sitting at the same table and negotiating with the "murderers of 6,000,000 Jews."

It is significant that TRYBUNA LUDU, the official organ of the Polish Communists, this week also attacked the "Ben-Gurion-Adenauer Axis." The paper accused Mr. Ben-Gurion of having "surrendered" the airfields and ports of Israel to the United States, and said that the present negotiations with Bonn will "desecrate the memory of the victims of Hitlerism."

AUERBACH TRIAL POSTPONED

"Judges Prejudiced"

From our Correspondent

MUNICH

The trial of Dr. Philip Auerbach, the former Director of the Bavarian State Restitution Office, who is charged with fraud and forgery, has been postponed until April 16. It was due to have opened on Wednesday.

The authorities agreed to a postponement following a protest by the defence counsel, who contested the court's jurisdiction, claiming that, to some extent, Dr. Auerbach was, while in office, acting on the instructions of the American authorities and could, therefore, not be tried without the consent of the U.S. High Commissioner. It was further claimed that the judges were prejudiced, being former members of the Nazi Party.

The Bavarian High Court had earlier ruled that Dr. Auerbach was not too ill to be kept under arrest.

INDIAN JEWS GO BACK

From our Correspondent

BOMBAY

One hundred and sixteen Jews—52 children among them—arrived here by Skymaster plane from Lydda on Wednesday.

The fares to Bombay were paid by the Jewish Agency, though the Agency this week made it clear that other newcomers demanding repatriation would have to make their own arrangements, cables our Jerusalem correspondent.

Before leaving, the Indian Jews said they were unable to settle down in Israel because of the climate, the manual work, which, they claimed, was too hard for them, and because of the "attitude of the Jewish Agency." They were not allowed to take money out of Israel.

Forty-five other Indian Jews who squatted outside the Tel Aviv offices of the Jewish Agency last week have agreed to stay in Israel provided efforts are made to settle them in more comfortable surroundings. The majority have returned to their former homes, while the others have been transferred to a ma'abara.

JEWS REPLACED

From a Correspondent

WARSAW

At the last moment, Dr. Ludwig Grosfeld and two other Jewish members of the Polish delegation to the International Economic Conference in Moscow were replaced by non-Jews. No reasons were given. The Vice-Premier, Mr. Hilary Minc, a Jew, who more than any person is responsible for Poland's new economy, was not included in the delegation.

GERMAN STATEMENT ON ADENAUER BOMB

BONN

The West German Ministry of the Interior said this week that it had no information suggesting that any Jewish organisation was connected with last week's parcel bomb attempt on the life of the Chancellor, Dr. Adenauer.

The Ministry was commenting on letters in the Paris press alleged to have come from a Jewish partisan organisation in Zurich which claimed it had been responsible for the bomb.

The Bonn authorities have offered a reward of 15,000 Deutschemarks (£1,250 sterling) for information leading to the arrest of the sender of the bomb.

A man, giving his name as Gerdr and describing himself as a clerk, was arrested in Hamburg on Wednesday on "grave suspicion" of being responsible for addressing the explosive parcel to Dr. Adenauer.

The Swiss police have so far unearthed no evidence indicating the existence of a Jewish organisation responsible for the plot against the life of Dr. Adenauer. Prominent members of Zurich's Jewish community have denied all knowledge of any such Jewish organisation in Switzerland and declare the letter to be an attempt to revive antisemitism in Germany.—(Reuter)

MILITARY EQUIPMENT FOR ISRAEL

Additional British Supplies Expected

From our Own Correspondent

JERUSALEM

Israel recently bought military equipment from Britain and hopes to get additional supplies from that country, said Mr. Moshe Sharett, the Israeli Foreign Minister, on his return here on Monday from Europe.

Mr. Sharett said the whole question of British military aid to Israel was now under discussion. His talks in London with Mr. R. A. Butler, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, he added, had opened the way for economic aid, and particularly for the supply of oil, from Britain.

Referring to his talks in Rome with the Italian Premier and Foreign Minister, Mr. Sharett said they had dealt mainly with the strengthening of commercial relations. He did not believe that Italian-Israeli friendship would interfere with relations between Italy and the Arab States. On the contrary, he thought that such a friendship might help to promote peace in the Middle East.

Mr. Sharett said there was a possibility that Italy would grant a loan to Israel and that Italian capital would be invested in the Jewish State.

During his meeting with the Pope, said Mr. Sharett, he had reported on the condition of the Holy Places in Israel and on the activities of the Christian communities there. He had referred to the fact that large numbers of Christian pilgrims visited Israel regularly, and had given an assurance that the Israeli authorities would help to facilitate the development of the Christian communities in Israel.

It is understood that, during Mr. Sharett's audience at the Vatican, the Pope evaded discussion of controversial matters, although the Foreign Minister expressed his willingness to investigate any complaints the Pope might voice.

Mr. Sharett's talks with the Italian Ministers are thought to have broken the deadlock arising out of complaints and counter-complaints between the two countries. Israel is claiming a substantial portion of the property and belongings of European Jews which were left in Italy at the outbreak of the Second World War, and the Italian Government is claiming property in Jerusalem, including the Generalli Buildings, one of the main edifices in the new city. It is believed that a settlement of these claims will now be effected.

GENERAL ZIONISTS CONFER

Move to Recruit Workers

From our Own Correspondent

TEL AVIV

A two-day national convention of the General Zionist Party—representing 35,000 members from 103 branches—opened here on Wednesday. Four hundred and ten delegates were elected to the Convention, 16 per cent of them from the Workers' List.

One of the major concerns of the Convention is to consider methods of winning more support among the workers, many of whom are dissatisfied with the present régime. Opinion is sharply divided on whether to establish a separate workers' organisation or to expand the party's workers' section in the Histadrut.

Speaking at a press conference before the Convention began, Dr. Peretz Bernstein, the leader of the Party, denied that the General Zionists had increased their votes at the recent Knesset elections because of the country's dissatisfaction with Government policy. He attributed his party's success, among other things, to its clear line of policy.

Dr. Bernstein reiterated the General Zionists' willingness to participate in the Government Coalition on condition that they were given sufficient influence in monetary matters and economic policy.

When Dr. Emanuel Neumann, member of the Jewish Agency Executive, addressed the opening session of the Convention, at Ramat Gan on Wednesday, he challenged Mr. Ben-Gurion, the Prime Minister, to clarify his attitude on the relation between the Israeli Government and the Zionist Organisation.

AIR CRASH VICTIMS BURIED

From our Own Correspondent

JERUSALEM

The bodies of Itzhak Bezner and David Otzerl, the two Government officials who were killed last week in the K.L.M. air disaster, were brought to Lydda on Tuesday and buried the same afternoon. The Dutch Minister to Israel and members of his Legation, as well as representatives of the Ministry of Finance and relatives of the deceased, were at the airport. The coffins bore two wreaths: one from the K.L.M. Company, the other from the Israeli Legation at The Hague.

JOINT FUND-RAISING AGREEMENT ENDED

From a Correspondent

JERUSALEM

The agreement signed in 1950 by the Hebrew University, the Weizmann Institute, and the Haifa Technion to conduct joint fund-raising campaigns in the United States and certain Latin-American countries has been terminated.

The University's hopes that joint campaigns would result in increased income have not been fulfilled, and the institution will in future arrange separate appeals.

JERUSALEM

Israel's I£168,450,000 Budget was given a third reading in the Knesset on Monday, the first day of the new fiscal year.

Over 300 Opposition amendments, some demanding cuts in administrative expenditure, were defeated after a heated debate. The Budget differs only slightly from the original estimates, some increases having been made in proposed expenditure on health, education, and the social services.
